SENATORS FIND WARD SEIZURE OUTSIDE LAW

Stinging Rebuke Is Given to Biddle.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—In a blistering report attacking the armed seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s Chicago plant, a senate judiciary subcommittee today held that President Roosevelt had no constitutional or statutory authority to order the seizure.

Sen. McCarran.

After accusing Atty. Gen. Biddle with providing erroneous and misleading information as a basis for the seizure, the committee recommended that all future Presidential executive orders cite by number all provisions of the Constitution or acts of congress under which the action is taken.

The Ward property was seized April 25 after the management refused to comply with a war labor board order directing that it continue a contract with the CIO pending an election. The property was returned to the company after an election had been held and the CIO won an apparent victory.

"Not a Last Resort."

Other findings of the committee included:

1. Military seizure of the company's property should have been taken only as a last resort. That it was not the last resort was shown by the government seeking court action to compel company officials to comply with the seizure order.

2. The war labor board's assumption of jurisdiction in the labor dispute at Ward's was inconsistent with its action on April 15 when it declined to act in a similar dispute at Sears, Roebuck & Co. at Minneapolis, Minn., holding that Sears was not engaged in war production.

Court Review Avoided.

3. The failure of the WLB to seek court orders to enforce two of its directives in the Ward labor dispute prior to the seizure was evidence of its reluctance to have its orders reviewed by the courts.

4. The department of labor's conciliation service did not make an investigation of the Ward labor dispute upon which to base its certification of the case to the WLB Dec. 6, 1943, other than to receive uncorroborated statements from the company and union.

5. WLB records fail to disclose facts to support its stand that the labor dispute "might interrupt

Slayer Sobs Tale of Wife's Illicit Love

Washington, D. C., May 26 [Special].—Burying his face in a handkerchief to muffle his sobs, Robert I. Miller, 67, veteran police court attorney, today told a jury trying him for first degree murder how he suffered mental and physical tortures upon learning of his wife's illicit relationship with Dr. John E. Lind, 57, a psychiatrist.

Miller shot Dr. Lind to death last Feb. 21 on a busy downtown corner after he had seen Mrs. Miller, 42, enter Lind's automobile.

Miller testified that he first learned of his wife's love affair with Dr. Lind when he picked up an extension telephone in his home last summer and overheard a conversation between the two.

"It Crucified Me!"

"I knew it was Dr. Lind," he told the jury. "He was telling her to take some kind of pill and go to sleep and not to worry."

"How did this affect you?" Miller's attorney, H. Mason Welch, asked.

"It crucified me," said Miller, breaking down and sobbing into his handkerchief.

With tears running down his lined face, Miller said he asked Dr. Lind three times to break off his relationship with Mrs. Miller. On the last occasion, he added, he threatened to go to the psychiatrist's superior at a federal mental hospital, but that Dr. Lind "told me to go to hell, and that if I went over there I would never practice law any more."

Expected to Be Killed.

"What did you understand he meant by that?" Welch asked.

"I thought he was going to kill me."

Miller told of praying and of lighting blessed candles in his office.

"What did you pray for?" his attorney asked.

"I prayed that he [Lind] would let her alone."

"Do you still love her?"

"I do."

Miller then described how he and his wife, Marguerite, had quarreled over the physician's attentions to her.

"What would happen on such occasions?" Welch asked him.

"She would get mad, curse me, and throw things at me," he replied.

Their situation became so unbearable, he said, that in desperation he took Marguerite to their parish priest, the Rev. John K. Cartwright, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church. He said Marguerite admitted to Father Cartwright that she was having an affair with Dr. Lind, but promised that it would stop.

Didn't Keep Promise.

"Did she keep this promise?" Welch inquired.

Miller buried his head in his hands. "No, she didn't."

Miller testified that he took a gun to his office with the intention of obtaining a permit to carry it in order to protect himself from Dr. Lind. Unable to obtain the permit, he said he decided to take it back home. On the way he said he saw his wife getting into Dr. Lind's car.

Running up to the car, he ordered her out, he related, but Dr. Lind told her to stay, threatening, "I'll shoot the gray headed old ——."

"I saw Dr. Lind reach down between Mrs. Miller and himself and I thought he was reaching for a gun," he testified. "Then I reached into my pocket, pulled out the gun, and shot him."

Miller was questioned only briefly under cross-examination today. He is expected to be recalled for more detailed questioning tomorrow.

NAVAL OFFICER ADMITS GIVING AWAY SECRETS

Sends His Firm List of Arms Plants.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—Capitol hill was waiting tonight for disclosure of the higher-ups responsible for a navy war plant inspection scandal after a day in which two members of the senate Truman committee demanded the court martialing of Comdr. John D. Corrigan.

Sen. Truman.

Comdr. Corrigan has insisted thru two days of questioning by the committee that his activities had the full sanction of his superiors. When he stepped from the witness stand today Chairman Truman [D., Mo.] said in a ringing voice:

"I think the United States navy should immediately court martial Comdr. Corrigan. This is the most flagrant case in which I have had an experience."

Ferguson Agrees.

"I agree with Sen. Truman!" shouted Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], who instigated the investigation and actively directed it.

Corrigan, two years in the navy, is half owner of Corrigan, Osborne & Wells, a New York engineering firm accused by the committee of correcting production difficulties which he discovered as a navy inspector.

Committee Counsel Hugh Fulton produced two letters today to attack Corrigan's testimony that he never gave his firm undue favors, never overstepped his duties as a naval officer, and never played favorites in inspecting war plants.

One had been written by Corrigan to David Amour, an employe of the Corrigan firm's Chicago office at 120 South La Salle street, whom Corrigan denied knowing yesterday. It said there was enclosed a "restricted" [for official use only] navy list of manufacturers who had been given money for plant facilities.

Urges Burning of List.

The letter urged Amour to take from it data concerning manufacturers of the Chicago area and then burn the list.

"But do yourself and your country a favor," the letter said, "by selling some of these people on here [the list] a job."

Corrigan recalled Amour and the writing of the letter today.

The other letter had been written by Corrigan to a friend regarding the navy's assuming control of a Hudson Motor company war plant at Detroit and transferring it to the Westinghouse Electric company. In it, Corrigan said:

"You were right when you guessed that the fine Italian hand of Corrigan did a little operation job on Hudson at Center Line. [A Detroit suburb where the plant is situated.] It took me a little longer to get this company out of the plant and switch over to Westinghouse than it should have."

Letter from Friend.

Corrigan explained that his friend had written him, saying that he had "seen the fine Italian hand" of Corrigan in the transfer, and that Corrigan replied in the same vein.

Asked to explain "fine Italian hand," Corrigan said it was what the Remington Rand company has used on him. He has blamed Remington Rand for part of the investigation. Its huge Elmira, N. Y., plant was transferred by the navy to Carl L. Norden, Inc., a firm which employs the Corrigan company, after an inspection by Corrigan.

President Frederick C. Wappler of the American Cystoscope Makers, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y., testified he engaged Corrigan's firm for $30,690 after Corrigan had inspected the plant and word had come that the navy was planning to take over the Bell & Howell plant in Chicago. This was before Bell & Howell had engaged Corrigan.

YANK AMAZES PALACE GUARD

Calls to See King; Finds It Just Isn't Done.

BY HOWARD WHITMAN.
[New York News Correspondent.]

LONDON, May 26.—"I'm an American citizen," I said. "As one ally to another, I'd like to see the king."

The police constable at the Buckingham palace gate puffed up like a balloon, got red in the face, and blurted, "What's that?"

I repeated my request, slowly.

"Hrumph, hrumph! . . . You're going to have to see the sergeant, you are," he said.

I found the sergeant at another gate, and when I told him that I would like to see the king he tilted back on his heels until I thought he would fall over.

"Now that's a one, isn't it!" he exclaimed. "Fact of it is, you can't even go into the palace. This is a private 'ouse, this is!"

So's Our White House.

I said, "The White House in Washington is a private house, but I've been in it several times."

"Ah, but that's different," replied the sergeant. "This is a permanent residence, whereas in your White House you have different occupants moving in every so often, don't you know . . ."

"We used to," I admitted.

After a long wait I was able to see the police inspector in charge of the palace detail and asked him about seeing the king. "That is quite impossible," he said. "Don't you realize no one can enter this palace at all, except by appointment?"

"Well, how about an appointment?"

"The procedure is to write to the master of the household and request one," the inspector explained.

"Then what?"

He Knows the Answer, too.

"He'll reply that you can't have one."

"As simple as all that?"

"Quite."

Just as we were clearing up this little point, a Rolls Royce turned into the palace driveway and both the inspector and the sergeant snapped to attention and saluted. I recognized Princess Elizabeth in the rear of the car with her lady in waiting beside her. Neither the princess nor the lady returned the salutes and I asked the inspector about that.

"The princess doesn't salute. She just nods," he explained. Then he added, with a touch of hurt feeling, "if you noticed, the sergeant got the nod that time."

The princess finally went into the palace, which houses a family of four and has 600 rooms.

The constables tried to console me by pointing out that even the Hon. David Bowles-Lyon, brother of the queen, couldn't get into the palace without an appointment and, therefore, I shouldn't feel too badly.

"Take us constables," he said, "if we're on duty in the grounds behind the palace and if any of the royal family is out walking, we just 'ides behind the bushes like, so as not to disturb them."

Hoare Hints Why Churchill Paid Tribute to Fascist Spain

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 26.—Samuel Hoare, British ambassador to Madrid who is recognized as being responsible for Prime Minister Churchill's conciliatory attitude to Fascist Spain, indicated in a speech here tonight why such a policy is necessary.

"When totalitarianism finally crashes, a great void will be left over many parts of the continent that will become the prey of new devils worse than the last if we do not forestall them," he said. Britain is in the best position to find for Europe a new doctrine of life that would combine liberty and order after the war, Hoare contended.

Seeks "Fundamental Unity."

"My discussions in Madrid," he said, "convinced me there is something more than personal in the example and disinterested advice that Europe expects from us." Again, he asserted:

"We must together discover a common purpose which, while leaving individual countries to settle their own internal affairs, will give back to European civilization the fundamental unity it has now lost."

In the post-war world, Hoare predicted there will be three great economic groups, America, Russia, and the British empire. He added, however:

"Only by the formation of a European group inspired by common principles will it be possible for the continent to continue its historic contribution to the civilization of the world. There must be a far closer coöperation among its many states than ever existed before. British experience and British qualities can be of inestimable value in building up such a system."

Fears 'Historic Mistake.'

There has been tremendous criticism in the press here regarding Churchill's references to Premier Francisco Franco in his speech to parliament this week. Even the weekly Economist protested today that Churchill may have made "a great historic mistake" in praising the Spanish government and expressed regret that "on the eve of the invasion Britain's captain general has sent out his forces to meet their allies with wrong words ringing in their ears."

Today the Communist newsletter, The Week, criticized Churchill's policy. It said: "The premier's references to Spain have to be understood as the climax of a long tussle with the state department and with important influences in Britain, which has temporarily come to an end in complete triumph for the policy represented by Sir Samuel Hoare."

Cartoonists' Delight!

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—Yesterday Prime Minister Churchill denounced those who "drawcomical or even rude caricatures of Franco."

Today the London press carried four cartoons of the Spanish dictator—none complimentary.

The Daily Herald's cartoonist showed Artist Churchill painting a heroic likeness of the generalissimo from an unpalatable model.

The News Chronicle pictured Churchill whitewashing a smudged Franco, with a caption from Macbeth—"Out, damned spot: Out, I say! What? Will these hands ne'er be clean?"

The Daily Mirror pictured a cartoonist with a clothespin on his nose as he drew a resplendent, haloed Franco, standing on a coffin, labeled "Fascist Crimes in Spain."

DEFENSE CORPS OF 2,000 SET TO GUARD VATICAN

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERN, Switzerland, May 26.—With the Germans being rolled toward Rome at an accelerated pace, officials entrusted with the defense of the Vatican today mobilized a "special defense corps" estimated at 2,000 men to guard church property in the capital, according to a report to St. Galler Tagblatt today.

Other precautionary measures recently taken include the setting up of barbed wire freezes on top of the more exposed outer walls which have been prepared for machine gun defense "should the occasion arise."

5TH ARMY SMASHES FOE BACK INTO ALBAN HILLS

INVASION IS DUE THIS SUMMER, F. D. R. ASSERTS

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—In his first public utterance in months on the long awaited invasion of Europe, President Roosevelt this afternoon declared that major military operations will be conducted in Europe this summer.

The President had promised the second front in speeches and formal statements, but had dodged until today any informal discussion of the greatest military venture in history.

He urged that the forthcoming offensive be called a liberation rather than an invasion, indorsing a suggestion offered editorially by a capital newspaper.

Emphasizes This Summer.

Activities in Europe, which are going to come off this summer — and he emphasized the phrase this summer — amounted to liberation of the people who have been oppressed for some time.

He said that all of our plans are made on the basis of liberation rather than of invasion.

The President also said he expected to see British Prime Minister Churchill again.

Asked if he expected to see him this summer, he said it would be in the summer, the fall, or the late spring.

"Why not winter?" a reporter asked.

He didn't like to travel, particularly on the Atlantic, in the winter, he replied.

Talks of Post-War Plan.

It was not developed whether Mr. Roosevelt, by saying the late spring, meant this year or next year — which would be after the inauguration of the President elected next fall.

Then he turned to post-war planning, saying such planning is far ahead of what it was during the last war.

He said that in the last war post-war planning did not receive attention until the late summer of 1918. At that time, Col. E. M. House, confidential aid of President Wilson, gathered data on races, commerce, and the like and Wilson took this with him to the peace conference in December, 1918.

In First Draft Stage.

In this war the allies have taken up many problems affecting post-war matters and have arrived at specific written recommendations on some of them. He said that it might be said that the allies were in the first draft stage of post-war problems.

He said he would not let the newspaper men see this first draft any more than he would let them see the first draft of one of his speeches. The first draft is usually awful, he added with a laugh.

Asked directly if Russia is functioning actively and satisfactorily in post-war planning, he answered absolutely.

He said post-war planning was a major topic at Cairo and Teheran.

Companion Drive Gains Six Miles; Wins Key Hill.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 26 (AP).—Hard driving veteran American tank and infantry forces tonight apparently were pushing the Germans steadily out of Velletri, strongpoint of the Nazis' new "last ditch" defense line 16 miles below Rome.

The Americans in a companion drive today smashed six miles beyond newly captured Cisterna and took the Germans' mountain stronghold of Cori.

[The Vichy radio quoted a German military spokesman as saying Rome would not be defended and that the Nazis' next stand would be on a line north of the city prepared months ago. The broadcast said allied capture of Rome "would bring no new element in the general conduct of the war except for the prestige which would be gained by this success."]

Late tonight Daniel de Luce, Associated Press correspondent with the 5th army south of Rome, reported that fires were raging in Velletri and that there were indications that the enemy had pulled his artillery into the hills back of the city.

Mop Up Nazi Pockets.

He said there still were some pockets of stubborn enemy resistance near Velletri, but indicated these were being cleared up, quoting Capt. Robert Moore of Oak Park, Ill., in charge of one tank force, as reporting his men had killed 200 Germans in mopping up a single position.

He also said one Yank column was subjected to a surprise bombing attack about 5 p. m. At least a score of men were killed, including medical personnel riding in ambulances mixed with an infantry convoy. It was the first loss due to air action reported since the offensive from the beachhead started Tuesday.

[Yesterday's German high command announcement said an "embittered struggle" was in progress south and east of Velletri, and claimed that 80 allied tanks were destroyed in that sector on Thursday.]

The allied armies swept ahead on all fronts, headquarters announcing the capture of a total of nine towns and half a dozen important heights.

Halfway to Via Casilina.

The plunge to Cori carried the beachhead forces nearly halfway from Cisterna to the Via Casilina [highway 6] escape road for tens of thousands of German troops hastily falling back toward Rome from the shattered Hitler line in the Liri valley and adjacent mountains. The imperiled enemy forces represented the bulk of the German 10th army.

The Nazis today abandoned Monte Cairo, towering height just north of Cassino, and the town of Roccasecca, eight miles farther west. San Giovanni, at the southern edge of the Liri valley and four miles from the Via Casilina, also was evacuated in the retreat.

Capture of Cori brought under control a mountain pass from which German long-range guns battered the beachhead for nearly four months. The town is nine miles from where the Via Casilina intersects the new German defense line at Valmontone.

Blast 700 More Vehicles.

Swarms of allied fighter-bombers continued attacks on German road and rail transport, derailing several trains, destroying more than 400 vehicles and damaging 300 others. This brought the total of enemy vehicles destroyed or damaged by air attack in the last three days to 2,500.

Many Nazi drivers overturned their trucks in frantic efforts to get out of the way when an Invader flight commanded by Maj. Paul Olizzi Jr., 7449 N. Claremont st., Chicago, attacked.

An air force spokesman said the Germans had been rushing reënforcements from north of Rome into their new defense line for two days, but declared highway conditions

4TH TERM? F.D.R. JUST LAUGHS AND LAUGHS!

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt told his news conference today that only time will tell his decision on the fourth term question.

This laughing reply came in response to another attempt by reporters to determine whether he would accept Democratic renomination.

A reporter noted that more than sufficient delegates now are pledged to him than he needs for the nomination. "Have you reached a decision?" he was asked.

Laughing heartily, the President said the question was a good one. Only time, he continued, will tell his decision.

A questioner remarked that there were only 55 days before the convention. Again the President only laughed.

were "chaotic'" on both sides of the Italian capital.

The count of German prisoners taken in the 15 day old offensive passed the 12,000 mark and was growing rapidly. If the proportion of killed and wounded follows the usual pattern, the Germans already have sacrificed possibly a fifth of the man power of their 17 divisions south of Rome.

Encounter Two Nazi Divisions.

Fifth army forces pushing along inland at the edge of the Pontine marshes from Terracina found that two Nazi divisions had been swung into position in the Lepini hills south and west and parallel to the Via Casilina to protect the long, exposed flank of German troops coming from the Liri valley.

An allied bulletin announced the capture both of Piedimonte and Aquino, last surviving strongholds of the Hitler line in the Lir valley, and disclosed that the Canadians established a bridgehead across the Melfa river, 13 miles from Cassino.

American and French forces, driving forward near the center of the line, captured Monte Vaglia, northwest of Pico; Monte Civitella, west of Vallecorsa, and other important points. Littoria, center of the model farms development in the Pontine marshes between the west coast and the Appian way, fell to American troops without a fight in the general German withdrawal from that entire region.

Four Day Battle for Cisterna.

Cisterna, pivotal point of the Nazis' entire defense ring around the Anzio beachhead, was captured by American tanks and infantry late yesterday after four days of savage fighting—three days to surmount its outer defenses and another day of house to house street fighting.

In fanning out from the rubbled town today, Yank columns threw back several Nazi counter-attacks on the way to Cori. They also advanced toward Doganella, three miles off the Appian way east of Cisterna.

Nazis Hint at New Retreats.

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—The German radio, admitting withdrawals on the Italian front, hinted tonight of more retreats to come, and chorused with unprecedented gloom of the allies "great superiority of material."

Martin von Hallensleben, DNB, radio commentator, said that the "sweeping might of allied tanks" had forced Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring to order withdrawals to a front line now running thru Velletri, and admitted the Germans already were expending reserves at several weak points.

Correspondent Reinhardt Albrecht said that the "fierceness of battle and the amount of materials used by the enemy recall the most difficult hours of our fathers during the battles of material of the last World war."

Ludwig Sertorius, commentator for Transocean, German propaganda agency, took to the microphone twice yesterday—an unprecedented course for him—to explain the retreats in terms of "yielding elastically to the overpowering presure, in particular, very strong masses of tanks."

44 ARE VICTIMS OF RESTAURANT FOOD POISONING

30 Naval Inductees Among Stricken.

Health department inspectors began a widespread investigation last night after at least 44 persons, including 30 men awaiting assignment in the naval recruiting station at 321 Plymouth ct., were stricken with food poisoning. All were hospitalized but none is seriously affected.

All the patients told police and navy investigators they became ill after eating in restaurants of the John R. Thompson company chain in or near the loop. Most of them reported they had finished their lunches with a dessert of rice pudding.

Navy Inductees First.

The first to be stricken were the navy inductees, who were taken to a restaurant on Jackson blvd. Food poisoning was immediately suspected because of similar symptoms and the 30 were taken to the navy sick bay at Navy pier.

Some were violently ill, others only slightly affected. However, all of the inductees except four were discharged from sick bay after treatment.

Reports from civilians who became ill after eating lunch in other restaurants of the chain were received by police during the evening as health department inspectors were making their collection of samples of suspected food.

Take Samples of Food.

William Smith, night general superintendent of the company, disclosed that inspectors had visited the commissary to take samples of the pudding and other foods. Samples of stomach contents of patients also were taken to the health department laboratory for analysis.

Smith said he examined food in the commissary and found nothing that would indicate any form of contamination.

Civilians hospitalized included Mrs. Ada Garrity, 62, of 2139 Michigan av.; August Cappetta, 52, of 2135 Michigan av., who later was sent home; Miss Clara Canavan, 73, of 542 Rush st., a proof reader for THE TRIBUNE; Albert Bernstein, 57, of 1246 Pratt blvd.; J. K. Fenckel, 48, of 3916 Van Buren st.

Carl Fager, 54, of 845 Sheridan rd.; Otto P. Hanneman, 51, of 1401 W. 82d st.; John Heino, 68, of 9534 S. Winchester av.; Junius Seaholm, 41, of 4825 Ferdinand av., and Elmer Beard, 60, of 15 W. Grand av. Larry Menzies, 4700 N. Winchester av., a telegraph operator for the New York Times, was ill in his home. The names of three persons reported suffering from food poisoning after eating in a Thompson restaurant were withheld by Wesley Memorial hospital.

ARMY MANUAL SHOWS NAZIS PLAN NEXT WAR

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 26 (AP). — A new instructional manual from the German high command, expressing concern about the declining birth rate, indicates that Germany already is preparing for the next war.

The manual, a copy of which was received here yesterday, said that "every stout boy born in 1943 can become a brave soldier in 1963."

Recognizing that war casualties would cause a further drop in the birth rate, the booklet declared every German family must, on the average, have four children. It stated that the 1932 average was two and that today's rate had not yet reached three. In 1910, it added, 6,400,000 families had 1,800,000 children but 8,600,000 families had only 865,000 in 1939.

SLAYS GERMANS IN ITALY; WINS HEROISM MEDAL

Pvt. 1st Class John A. Wakefield, 5201 Eddy st., recently was awarded the distinguished service cross for action which resulted in the killing or wounding of 40 or more Germans. The award was made by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark in Italy.

The soldier was awarded the medal after he moved a machine gun into a gap in his battalion's lines thru which the Germans were penetrating on Monte Castellone. He used matches to free the gun's mechanism of ice and then directed a "deadly accurate fire on the onrushing enemy."

Wakefield, 20, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Wakefield. He enlisted in the army on Nov. 7, 1942.

SLAIN NAZIS AND SMASHED ARMOR LITTER CORI ROAD

Yank Tanks Crush Foe in Mountains.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH 5TH ARMY AT CORI, Italy, May 26.—The way to Cori, mountain town conquered by Americans in our northeast sweep from Cisterna, was a trail of smashed Nazi material today, and the foe's dead were piled high.

The Yanks closed the trap on the enemy Thursday. German armored forces were striving to climb mule tracks in the hills beyond Cori and escape into the valley when our tanks caught up with them. Seldom have our Shermans had a bigger or more open target and they poured shells into the enemy.

Dead Lie in Heaps.

The result, as seen today, was blacker than the broken remnants of panzer power in Tunisia and Sicily. Mark VI. Tiger tanks, their 88 millimeter guns silenced forever, Mark VIs. with their stilled 75s, all were overturned or tilted crazily from the roads. Armored cars, staff cars, and ammunition carriers were telescoped into one another as if our tank shells were giant rivets to force together the enemy vehicles.

The dead—officers and men, gray haired commanders and fair haired youths of not more than 16—were heaped ungainly and ghastly. Some had perished in their tanks and cars, others lay in the ditches.

Bring In Captives.

The Germans withdrew from Cori at noon yesterday and 10 hours later American infantry men filed thru the lonely, bombed and shelled streets. All night and today they were bringing in German captives from the northern ouskirts of the town and from the hills.

Cori was bombed several times by the Americans, but, generally, the damage here was less than in Cisterna and other Italian towns the Yanks have been forced to raid and shell in order to oust the Germans.

HINT GERMANS HAVE BEGUN TO SEIZE BULGARIA

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERN., Switzerland, May 26.—A veil of secrecy has descended on Bulgaria, where communications with the outside world were cut at noon today. After this news blackout, similar to that imposed on Hungary March 18 just before the Germans occupied that country, the Germans were reported from Balkan sources to be planning a "security occupation" of Bulgaria, which may already have begun.

Budapest reports appear to indicate considerable resistance in some parts of Bulgaria, where army officers have imposed local states of siege.

Just prior to the cutting of Bulgarian communications one report reaching Bucharest indicated a special German "political company" had moved into the capital where, with the cooperation of members of the Bulgarian government, it assumed direction of offices contributing "directly to national defense."

RED PLANES SINK 3 NAZI VESSELS IN BARENTS SEA

LONDON, May 27 [Saturday]—(AP). — The Russians reported early today that bombers of the Red fleet air force attacked German troopships in the Barents sea, north of Norway, early Friday morning, sinking two transports and a destroyer and damaging three others.

The Germans earlier reported the attack and claimed to have shot down 69 of 80 attacking planes. The Russian bulletin said only seven bombers were lost in repeated "mass attacks with bombs, gunfire, and torpedoes."

The Russians had nothing to say about the war on the eastern front, but German commentators continued to claim that a big new soviet offensive was brewing and declared that they knew where the blow would be struck. They said battles were imminent in the Grigoriopol sector on the lower Dnestr and on the middle Siret river between Tarnopol and Brody.

The broadcast Russia war bulletin said that 18 German planes had been shot down Thursday.

OCD WILL HELP IN WAR DRIVES, MAYOR REVEALS

A change in the character of the Chicago office of civilian defense organization was announced last night by Mayor Kelly, OCD coördinator for the metropolitan area. The mayor, speaking at an OCD meeting in Hotel Sherman, said the organization would be called upon to aid in gaining contributions to the Red Cross blood bank, stimulating salvage drives, and similar activities.

The new function of the OCD, he explained, is the result of decreased likelihood of enemy bombing attacks. "There is no longer any need for constant activity on the part of the protective corps of volunteers," he said.

Mayor Kelly was presented with the national award of merit by Lt. Gen. William N. Haskell, national OCD director, in recognition of the organization's work in the metropolitan area.

The OCD exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry, showing the effects of a bombing raid upon a city street, was formally presented to Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, director and manager of the museum, by Mayor Kelly.

OCD Leader Surrenders in Dance Ticket Inquiry

Norman W. Johnson, 45, of 2224 Van Buren st., a bookstore owner and district commander of the Garfield Park office of civilian defense, surrendered yesterday after the collector of internal revenue obtained a writ of attachment to compel him to make an accounting of admissions sold for an OCD dance. The collector said Johnson had refused to disclose how he had disposed of unsold tickets. Federal Judge John P. Barnes set hearing for June 26 and released Johnson on $500 bail.

BOMBERS SMASH FRENCH FUNNEL OF NAZI SUPPLIES

Lyon Hit 2d Day in Row; Blast Other Rail Keys.

LONDON, May 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—British based bombers apparently were striking again early today after weather gave Germany a 24 hour respite. The German radio reported enemy planes headed toward Duesseldorf and Cologne after two large groups of R. A. F. heavy bombers had crossed the channel.

Between 500 and 750 Italy based American heavy bomber blasted rail yards at Lyon, funnel point for Nazi defenses in southern France, for the second time in two days yesterday and ripped other rail installations in the south of France.

Bad weather halted the heavy offensive from Britain after a devastating week in which more than 32,000 allied aircraft battered pre-invasion targets with 35,000 tons of bombs.

American Thunderbolts and Lightnings attacked air fields and rail targets in northern France in the afternoon, however, and Britain based Mosquito bombers harassed Nazi installations in the same area without loss.

Nice Also Bombed.

In the evening 325 American Marauders attacked bridges in northern France and an air field near Chartres. Havocs bombed an air field at Beaumont-sur-Oise.

The Fortresses and Liberators from Italy that ripped into Lyon also hit rail installations at St. Etienne, 40 miles to the southwest; and at nearby Vaise, La Mouche, Chambery, and Grenoble.

The heavies also smashed rail yards at Nice and at the Var river bridge five miles to the southwest on the French Riviera.

Few enemy fighters were encountered.

Italy based Fortresses also bombed German troop concentrations at Bihac, 70 miles south of Zagreb in Yugoslavia, and destroyed grounded planes near Zara.

Summary of Week's Raids.

In the great week of aerial offensive which began last Friday night, allied bombers made 81 attacks against key rail centers, upon which the Germans lean heavily for moving front line supplies.

In aerial combat the Germans lost 306 planes in futile attempts to stop the torrent of steel. More than 200 planes were damaged or destroyed on the ground.

Combined allied losses were put at 368 planes—about 1 per cent of the total forces.

Some of the attacks were on the heaviest scale. Even the German controled French radio said the rail system in occupied France was in chaos. Close behind the rail campaign came a concerted attack against enemy air fields in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany. At least 75 operations against such targets were carried out. Berlin came in for a double drubbing by daylight from American heavies. Important port installations at Kiel also were attacked.

CONFIDENCE MAN GETS $50.

Mrs. Ella Spoonhour, 7038 Harper av., yesterday told police that she had been defrauded of $50 by a man who represented himself as a tombstone salesman and had accepted that amount as a down payment.

BRITISH INVASION FORCES READY TO STRIKE: GEN. IKE

Reports to King After Tour of Bases.

Dover Strait Quiet

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—Wind and sea moderated in Dover strait tonight and prospects were good for clear weather. The barometer rose. The temperature was 49. High tide at Dover and Calais Saturday will be at 4:06 a. m. and 4:19 p. m.

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower, whose word will hurl the full might of an allied invasion upon the Nazi bound continent, returned to supreme headquarters today after a swift inspection tour of British land forces under his over-all command. He was well pleased with the thoro training of this army Britain has assembled to wring vengeance for the Dunkerque of four years ago.

He pronounced the men fit and ready and that probably was his word to their king, George VI., whom he visited briefly upon his return.

Coming Soon, Says Moscow.

In Moscow the official soviet newspaper Izvestia said that "the day is not far distant when the world will see Anglo-soviet-American military might develop in all its power."

For their part, the Germans expect allied power to reach its climactic maximum by this summer, according to the Nazi news agency DNB, which hinted the Germans would not wait forever for the invasion.

"There is no doubt," the dispatch said, "that the German tactics do not consist of waiting on the defensive for an unlimited time." It added that German forces were charging up "energies of which the enemy may have some idea, but which will surprise him when one day they let loose—invasion or no invasion."

Forces to Wear U. S. Star.

Thruout the arsenal of Britain all allied vehicles were being made ready for the invasion. It was disclosed in London that tanks and jeeps were being marked with a white star, symbol of American fighting forces on land and in the air, but it was understood this would not be extended to air units in the invasion. The R. A. F. will retain its red, white, and blue target.

Use of the American white star for all forces follows a precedent set in North Africa and Italy.

AUSTRALIA TO TAKE ALLIED MIGRANTS RIGHT AFTER WAR

CANBERRA, Australia, May 26 (AP).—Acting Prime Minister Francis E. Forde today announced that the government intends to embark on a positive migration policy immediately after the war with emphasis on movement of British service men and selected children from Britain and Europe.

The scope of the migration would be controled, he said, by Australia's capacity for absorbing newcomers. Factors involved include economic and housing conditions and the necessity for rehabilitating Australia's own service and factory personnel.

Fords said particular attention would be given to encouraging settlement of allied as well as British service men and women seeking demobilization here and "who measure up to our standards."

4 Years from Dunkerque, Little Ships Ready Again

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—Just four years ago the "little ship" men helped rescue the British army from Dunkerque, France. Today many have answered the call again—this time with offensive operations in the wind. They are among 3,700 volunteer yachtsmen and others with motorboat or steamboat experience who have been enrolled by the admiralty for short periods of duty in home ports.

Cathedral of Hohenzollern Tomb Reported Wrecked

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—The German radio said today that a Berlin cathedral containing the tomb of the Hohenzollerns was wrecked in Wednesday's American raid on the Reich capital. The structure stands opposite the castle where Kaiser Wilhelm once lived.

THOUSANDS LINE MICHIGAN AV. AS R.O.T.C. PARADES

Thousands of persons along the curbs and in office windows of Michigan av. yesterday noon cheered the ninth annual city-wide high school R. O. T. C. parade, climax of the year's training for the largest corps in the nation.

Eleven thousand cadets of the 30 Chicago units were out to show the city what snap and precision and military proficiency they had acquired under the tutelage of regular army instructors.

Officers' sabers flashed, white gloved hands snapped to salute, bands and drum and bugle corps blared martial music, and the boys in khaki uniforms with blue lapels kept up a regular cadence. The line began moving at noon and the units disbanded nearly two hours later.

Flag Presentation on W-G-N.

Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, 6th service area commander, and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the TRIBUNE, spoke briefly in a program broadcast over W-G-N just before the parade, in which Gen. Aurand presented national and school flags to cadet leaders of the Sullivan and Fenger High school units, winners of first and second places, respectively, in the recent annual federal inspection of all the city's units. The flags are donated for the winners annually by THE TRIBUNE. The ceremony took place on Balbo dr., just off Michigan av., where the parade started.

Both speakers praised the cadet corps as the material from which the nation has drawn and will draw some of its best men for military services.

Tells Flags Significance.

"These flags," said Gen. Aurand, "mean to those in the army, as they should mean to the cadets in the winning units, that these young men have passed the first step in achieving the leadership which their country will require of them in years to come.

"Our country will always need the leadership which can be built on the foundation of R. O. T. C. training," Gen. Aurand declared.

Col. McCormick called attention to the fact that the Chicago corps, organized nearly 30 years ago, is the oldest and largest in the nation. The corps can be proud of the contributions its former members have made to the service of their country in this war, he said.

Salute Reviewing Stand.

The parade started at noon at command of Gordon C. McKeague, cadet colonel of the corps. Two blocks north, at the Congress st. plaza, McKeague and his staff of 10 aides flashed their gleaming sabers in a salute as they passed the reviewing stand in which Gen. Aurand and other military and school leaders were stationed.

Then came the Sullivan High school unit, first in line because of its recently won honors, led by Cadet Lt. Col. Marvin Spira. Then followed the Sullivan drum and bugle corps.

Among officers returning salutes as the cadets passed the reviewing stand were Gen. Aurand and Brig. Gen. John F. Davies, chief of staff, 6th service command; Rear Adm. H. S. Kendall of the naval air technical training command, and Col. William F. Morrison, head of the Chicago R. O. T. C. School officials on the stand included President James B. McCahey of the board of education; George F. Cassell and Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant city school superintendents, and Brother James, director of St. Mel High school.

RED RECOGNITION FOR FRENCH IS NEWS TO HULL

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull said today he was without any information on a report that Russia had decided to recognize the French national committee as the provisional government for metropolitan France.

Recent published reports have said that the soviets had decided to recognize the French committee despite the fact that the United States has decided not to recognize it and that Britain apparently is going along with the United States. The American policy was indorsed by Prime Minister Churchill on Wednesday.

100,000 PRISONERS AVAILABLE FOR WORK ON U. S. FARMS: F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt today made public a statement from the war department and office of war mobilization which said there are 100,000 prisoners of war in this country available for labor on farms and other useful projects.

Only last week Marvin Jones, war food administrator, had asked the war department to make every possible prisoner available for farm work, saying state and local farm agencies had certified to WFA a need for at least 250,000 prisoners to help carry out 1944 farm and pulpwood production programs. About 50,000 were used in farm work last year.

The war department statement said prisoners may be used as long as the employment meets the terms of the Geneva convention, and the President noted that farmers interested in obtaining prisoner of war labor should see county agents.

REUTERS MIFFED; DENIES IT PLAYS UP BRITISH VIEW

New York, May 26 (AP). — Reuters, British news service, said today an assertion by a United States state department official that it had distributed highly editorialized stories cast "a slur upon the British newspapers which own Reuters" and was "an unwarranted attack upon professional newspapermen."

Yesterday Paul H. Alling, deputy director of the state department's office of near eastern and African affairs, urged the house appropriations committee not to curb the operations of the office of war information which he said counteracted "highly editorialized stories sent out by Reuters."

Reuters' statement said in part: ". . . Reuters categorically deny Mr. Alling's statement and particularly his allegation regarding the service to India that 'they send out American stories, perhaps omitting part of the story or something of that sort, and naturally from the British viewpoint.'"

EX-FBI AGENT ENDS THE CASE: FINDS SON DEAD

New York, May 26 (AP).—Leon G. Turrou, former agent of the federal bureau of investigation, has completed his most sorrowful investigation with the finding of the body of his son, Lt. Victor T. Turrou, who had been reported missing on a bombing flight over Italy. The story was told in the Mediterranean edition of the Stars and Stripes, army weekly, which arrived here today.

Lt. Turrou's plane left North Africa last Aug. 16 to bomb the Foggia airfields and was shot down by Nazi fighters near Potenza.

The father, now a captain in the army criminal investigation division, later was assigned to duty in Italy. Survivors of the crash had returned to the United States but he obtained a list of the bomber's crew and gave it to another son, Edward, a lieutenant in the CID. Guided by vague reports from residents of the area, Edward found the graves of eight flyers who had perished Aug. 16, but only five had been identified. Thru a dental chart, one of the other bodies was identified as his brother's.

A Few Stitches in Time Cover a Lot of Territory

St. Louis, Mo., May 26 (AP).—Conductor H. H. Carman on the Missouri Pacific's Eagle has faced many catastrophes during his 35 years of railroading, so he readily came to the rescue of a 350 pound passenger who had ripped out the seat of his trousers. As fellow travelers averted their eyes and grinned, the distressed passenger was led by Carman to the privacy of a stateroom and produced the device he uses to staple tickets together. "I had him stiched up in 30 seconds," Carman related today. "He was afraid to sit down, tho, so he stood up the rest of the way."

SUPER-CABINET FOR BIG 3 MAY BE SHAPED SOON

Winant, Halifax, Litvinov Mentioned for Posts.

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—Formation of a tri-power "super cabinet" to deal with the international diplomatic problems of Britain, Russia, and the United States may be the next development in plans to create, before victory, an international organization to keep the peace.

How far the idea has developed remains uncertain, but its necessity has been urged for some time and its likely membership would be on a high level—men of such position as Ambassador John G. Winant of the United States, Ambassador Halifax of Britain, and Maxim Litvinov of Russia.

Five Factors Wield Influence.

Supporting the possible creation of such an agency are these factors:

1. Information in high British quarters that the three nations are planning to get together soon to study the structure of a world organization.

2. Criticism in the press, congress, and the house of commons over failure of the European advisory commission to handle efficiently such problems as the Italian political situation, relations with the French national committee, and the Polish-Russian controversy.

4. Current consultations in Washington among President Roosevelt and Ambassadors Winant and W. Averell Harriman, which have been extended beyond original intentions, plus the refusal of Presidential Secretary Stephen Early to confirm or deny that Winant will be given another assignment.

5. Reports from neutral sources that a three way diplomatic shift in the United States setup is being planned, with Winant remaining in Washington, Harriman coming to London, and possibly Sumner Welles taking over the Moscow post.

One Fact Is Known.

This much, however, is known—that both Winant and Harriman went to Washington on their own initiative, following an inspection tour by Edward R. Stettinius Jr., undersecretary of state.

Creation of a tri-power cabinet would be in line with Prime Minister Churchill's recommendation in commons for a "controling council" of the greatest war victors, apparently to serve as a sort of board of directors over a world organization which would have force to back up its mandates.

Formation of such a diplomatic "super cabinet" has precedent in the basis under which the joint military and supply boards were formed for coördinating the war effort of the big three.

AMERICANS RAID KUSAIE, PONAPE, KURILE ISLANDS

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, May 26 (AP).—The navy announced tonight that army and navy planes had attacked Kusaie and Ponape Islands, both in the Carolines, and enemy positions in the Marshalls.

Kusaie was raided yesterday. At Ponape an air field and dock areas were hit on Wednesday. One raider was damaged by "meager" anti-aircraft fire.

Navy search planes of fleet air wing 4, based in the Aleutians, raided Shumushu Island in the northern Kuriles on Wednesday, Adm. Nimitz announced. Several fires were started in the target area. Ground fire was meager. All planes returned.

Correct Ways to Display the Flag

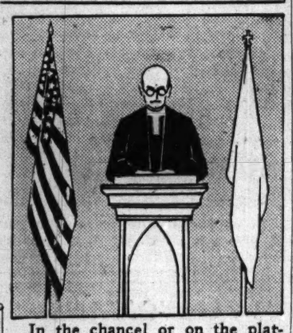
Carried in a procession of any kind with another flag.



In the chancel or on the platform of a church.

When displayed on a speaker's platform.

Over the center of a public street.

Other Rules Given

The proper method of displaying the nation's flag so that it is accorded the respect due it as the world's foremost symbol of freedom and justice is explained herewith by THE TRIBUNE in response to inquiries that are increasing in number with the approach of Memorial day next Tuesday.

The flag is flown at half mast until noon, as a special Memorial day practice, in tribute of those who have died in its service. In token of the nation's continuing life it flies from full staff from noon until sundown.

Because the union [the blue field with the 48 stars] betokens the solidarity of the states it is the flag's point of honor and is always given the position of eminence, at the top and to the observer's left.

When flown over the street the flag hangs vertically with the union to the north or east, depending on the street direction. No other emblem is ever flown above it except the church pennant while religious services are being held aboard ship. In church it stands at the clergyman's right.

In parades the flag of the United States, if carried with other banners, belongs at the right of the column or out ahead.

The flag should never be used as a mere decoration or for a speaker's stand or in an assembly hall.

COMMONS TIED UP BY RITUAL, SAY MEMBERS

Insist on Streamlining — Treaty Gag Hit.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 26.—Streamlined parliamentary procedure was demanded by many members in the house of commons today and a government spokesman promised to report to the leader of the house the major points raised in the debate.

The archaic ritualistic rules governing the house, it was said, date back to the period 1653-1689, to Oliver Cromwell, the Revolution, and the "Glorious Revolution," when James II. lost his throne. Even Charles Parnell and the Irish National party, it was added, discovered that if the rules were literally interpreted it would be possible to bring business in commons almost to an end.

"Insulated" Status Assailed.

Conservative member Winterton, who initiated the demand for a change, recalled that there was a time when the prime minister and many others had said that drastic steps were necessary if commons' business was not to be brought to a halt. "We cannot live in a sort of insulated room," he said, "remote from the affairs of the outside world in the way we do our business."

Ellis Smith, a Laborite, said "many of the best types of young men in commons have felt frustrated and have become heartbroken" because they cannot raise their voices in debates.

Aneurin Bevan, a Laborite, complained that commons had lost all control over the government.

"Our difficulty is not that the government cannot make us act quickly, but that we have not the means to make them act at all," he said.

He objected particularly to the treaty powers of the government inherited from the crown, saying that "commitments are effective once the government commits itself to any power and the government has to be thrown out before commons can assert its authority."

United States Bases Deal Cited.

He cited the leasing of bases for 99 years to America. As far as he knew, he said, the arrangement had not yet been ratified by the house.

Winterton interrupted:

"An even worse case was when the prime minister informed the French government that we were prepared to make France a part of Great Britain. This the house accepted like tame sheep."

Bevan criticized the ancient ritual by which commons is summoned by a black rod to enter the house of lords to witness the royal assent to bills. The time has come, he said, "when serious business ought not to be interrupted by ancient ritual."

BIG BOMBERS RIP JAP ISLANDS FAR PAST HOLLANDIA

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 27 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's long range Liberators are continuing their incessant pounding of Biak Island on the route to the Philippines, headquarters announced today.

In their 22d successive raid on the major Schouten Islands base 260 miles northwest of captured Hollandia, the Liberators dumped heavy loads Thursday to bring their total tonnage to more than 700.

There was no report of the progress by ground troops on the Dutch New Guinea mainland in their battle for the partially completed Japanese air base at Maffin, 10 miles up the coast from Wakde Island, which was taken May 19.

Follow Pre-Invasion Pattern.

Continuation of heavy air raids on the Schoutens, following the pre-invasion pattern, resulted in three large fires Thursday, the war bulletin reported. Manokwari, on the head of New Guinea across Geelvink bay from the Schoutens, also was hammered again.

Other bombers kept up extermination attacks on by-passed Jap garrisons at Wewak, British New Guinea, and Rabaul, New Britain. The Wewak area received 75 tons Thursday and Rabaul 66 tons on Wednesday.

MacArthur's report made no mention of operations in the Maffin bay area, but headquarters spokesmen said meager reports filtering back from the front indicated the stubborn Jap defenders were withdrawing under heavy American infantry and artillery fire.

Fight at Edge of Air Strip.

The last official announcement concerning the Maffin battle placed the veteran 6th army Yanks at the east edge of the air strip. This action occurred Wednesday.

Field reports today told of the capture of four enemy field guns and much ammunition. American tanks were going up to aid the infantry.

Light naval patrols are helping the invaders in the Maffin bay area, the war bulletin disclosed when it reported they had destroyed five enemy gun positions on the coast.

MORE HELP FOR CHINA IS URGED BY KUOMINTANG

CHUNGKING, China, May 26 (AP).—A manifesto of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang, China's governing body, today said the war in Asia has reached a decisive stage and appealed for "greater aid" in equipping the Chinese armies and air force.

Pledging use of all the country's strength in achieving early victory, the manifesto said it was not possible to make a distinction between the battlefields of the east or the west in an anti-aggression war.

Declaring that close coöperation among the allies has become "more manifest" during the last eight months, the Kuomintang pointed to the "formidable American offensive in the Pacific" and said Russian, American, and British forces had scored signal successes.

8,500 JAPS SLAIN AS ALLIES CHECK DRIVE INTO INDIA

Headquarters Reports Imphal Slaughter.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., KANDY, Ceylon, May 26 (AP).—Japanese attempts to seize the Imphal plain in eastern India have cost them 8,500 men since March and are continuing to bleed them heavily, allied headquarters announced today. On the monsoon drenched North Burma front at Myitkyina the enemy still was reported clinging desperately to all main positions in the stronghold.

The slaughter was going on in the Imphal area, with heavy casualties inflicted upon the 33d and 15th Jap divisions plus reënforcements which originally totaled about 30,000 men, an official spokesman said.

Japs Hurled Back.

In a recent attack on allied forward positions along the Palel-Tamu road, the Japs were thrown back in an attempt to penetrate positions on the southwest edge of the plain, and today's war report said they left 200 dead.

In the same sector the enemy sustained severe losses when air-supplied Gurkhas of a roadblock brigade beat off two heavy attacks from the Tiddim direction and then attacked.

Heavy monsoon rains swept the battle fields thruout the valley, hampering all offensive operations. While no specific details were available, it appeared from front dispatches that the enemy held all principal positions in Myitkyina except those lost immediately after the original appearance of the American and Chinese Marauders last week, and probably still control two-thirds or more of the city.

Stilwell Keeps Up Pressure.

A headquarters bulletin said Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces maintained pressure northwest of the stronghold, while another allied column attacked on the north side of the town, killing more than 50 Japs.

"At Namkwi [four miles northwest of Myitkyina] our troops cut off enemy reënforcements approaching Myitkyina from the west and inflicted severe casualties," the report said. "In the Mogaung valley [west of the city], the Chinese 22d division destroyed Japanese positions southeast of Malakawng." The Chinese 38th division remained about seven miles northeast of Kamaing.

Burma Road Not Cut, Say Chinese.

CHUNGKING, China, May 26 (AP).—A Chinese army spokesman today said that on the Salween front in Yunnan province Chinese forces have reached a point 25 miles from the Burma road town of Lungling. He said a previous claim that the Chinese had cut the Burma road southwest of Lungling was in error. A mistake in transmission gave a village retaken as Chefang, whereas Chifang was meant. Chifang is northeast of Tengchung, main Jap Yunnan base.

LOYANG MAY BE IN JAPS' HANDS, CHINESE ADMIT

CHUNGKING, China, May 26 (AP).—The Chinese command announced late tonight that contact with the ancient Chinese city of Loyang had been cut and an official army spokesman said it probably had fallen to strong Japanese forces which have been besieging it for days. Tokyo claimed capture of the city yesterday.

Loyang, on six occasions the capital of China, lies in northwestern Honan on the Lunghai railway, guarding an historic approach to interior China.

The Jap drive thru Honan westward toward Shensi province has been halted at all main points, a Chinese army spokesman said. Tonight's war report told of fighting in Hupeh province, with the Chinese repulsing Jap attacks south and southwest of Hankow.

Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's American airmen made widespread attacks, ranging from Hainan Island, Thailand, and Indo-China to the Yangtze and Yellow rivers in China, Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced. They sank two cargo vessels off Hainan.

LONDON PALACE WINDOWS BLOWN OUT IN AIR RAID

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—Many windows in St. James's palace, including those of stained glass, and the great mullioned windows of the royal chapel, were blown to pieces in an air raid some time ago, it was announced today.

St. James's palace, former London residence of British sovereigns, now is used for royal receptions. It narrowly escaped serious damage when a bomb fell at the west end of Pall Mall. The clock the tower was destroyed. The queen's chapel and the princess royal's private flat suffered damage.

Art treasures in near-by shops, valued at between 1 and 2 million dollars, were destroyed.

GLENVIEW PLANE FALLS IN GARDEN; ENSIGN IS KILLED

Ensign Milton Chester Pickens, 20, of Houston, Tex., was killed yesterday when his plane crashed 300 feet into a garden at 914 Waukegan rd., Deerfield. The plane was on a routine flight from the naval air station at Glenview.

Witnesses told Deerfield police the plane circled above the Deerfield business district, apparently striving for altitude, then fell in the garden after narrowly missing a house occupied by Stanley Antes, a salesman. The plane wrecked a chicken house and buried itself six feet in the ground where Antes had been working a few minutes before.

HENRI CHARPENTIER'S Column

Not everyone has had the thrill and honor of being decorated with the accompanying presentation of arms . . . But nature has embellished mountains and valleys with a covering of assorted flowers, appropriately so on the Thirtieth day of May, Decoration Day. The beauty of the early rose bush is represented. The perfume of all blossoms reaches its destination in spite of any obstacle; no guns can impede it . . . Many years ago the grand Patriot Patrick Henry declared, "Give me liberty or give me death!" Since that momentous statement millions of Americans have given their lives to preserve that liberty . . . Among them are the immortal Yankees of today who are fighting and dying on five continents for that cause. We, the rear guard, have but one heart which, without discrimination or politics, decorates all by its embrace of one on this Decoration Day.

AMERICAN LOSS OF RICH BOLIVIAN OIL FIELDS SEEN

Vast Supply for War Is Almost Untouched.

Reports on Bolivia

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—Secretary Hull today said his special investigator to Bolivia, Ambassador Avra Warren, had turned in a report which would serve as a basis for consultation among the American nations which do not recognize the Bolivian regime.

The whole question of the policy of nonrecognition now is open and if the American nations find conditions in Bolivia have changed sufficiently they may recognize the La Paz administration.

[This is the seventh of a series of articles by a Tribune reporter who has just returned from a tour of Latin America.]

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

Along the eastern slope of the Andes mountains on a gigantic eyebrow extending almost the 800 mile length of Bolivia lies the richest unexploited oil field in the western hemisphere. In meager operations of the field, 90 per cent of the wells drilled have been producers, an unusually high rate.

This vast potential supply of fuel, which might have been so important to the allies' war machines, is almost idle. Bolivians say this is because of the generally see-saw policies of our state department toward that South American republic and our refusal to recognize her new government. Critics of American policies say the United States is risking loss of the oil to foreign exploitation by these policies.

Standard Oil Deal Blamed.

Bolivians were puzzled by our disregard of an important oil field in our own hemisphere while Harold Ickes, interior secretary and petroleum administrator, was warning that United States oil may be exhausted in 14 years and was seeking to commit the nation to an expenditure of $165,000,000 to build far away in the middle east a pipe line he claimed necessary to our security in the war and defense afterward.

In an interview with this correspondent, Dr. Carlos Salamanca, confidential Bolivian minister to Argentina, charged that our state department's unsuccessful efforts to revive Standard Oil contracts, which Bolivia canceled in 1937, is responsible for the United States' cool attitude toward his country in the last year or two.

Landlocked Bolivia, center of South America, has great hopes for her oil, which she considers her greatest natural wealth. Altho she has extensive tin deposits—now the principal source available to the allies since the Japs cut off the Malay states—her people recognize the limitations of a national economy based entirely on tin. But, more than that, they see their oil as the key to a better way of life in a country that never has known anything except a low standard of living.

American Concessions Seized.

It was because Bolivians wanted to realize more from their natural wealth that their government canceled its Standard Oil contracts. Incidentally, the action was taken by a previous administration and not the one which the United States now will not recognize.

In taking over the Standard Oil concessions—along with other private oil fields—seven years ago, the Bolivian government accused the company of not fulfilling its contract to exploit the wells more extensively, with a resultant higher income to Bolivia. Because the public—theoretically, at least—was to have been the beneficiary, Standard Oil's alleged dereliction was called by Bolivian officialdom a crime against the Bolivian people.

The government's move was upheld by the Bolivian Supreme court in 1939. In April, 1942, Bolivia paid Standard Oil $1,729,375 for the confiscated properties. Following cancellation of the contracts, the government created the Bolivian National Oil Deposits to operate the field but the agency lacks the equipment necessary to work the wells to the capacity warranted by their magnitude.

Tin Taught a Lesson.

Dr. Salamanca was a representative of the Bolivian government in the litigation that excluded Standard Oil from the big field. He discussed at length the great hopes of his countrymen that their oil production be increased now to provide them with the material gains they urgently need.

"Having lost the wealth of our tin to foreign exploitation," he explained, "we are determined not to lose the benefits we know the income from our oil could give us.

"We believe the wealth of Bolivia's great oil deposits offers a means of providing economic stability for our country and can be made to boost the standard of living of our 3,000,000 inhabitants."

Explains U. S. Aims.

The repeatedly expressed belief of Bolivian senators that the Standard Oil deal impaired the relations between the United States and Bolivia was stated specifically by Salamanca. He charged that our state department still hopes to regain control of the Bolivian fields for Standard Oil and that the department's lack of success is reflected in its treatment of Bolivia. He added the conviction that the state department never would succeed in such an undertaking.

Salamanca told of offers by Argentina during the last two years to finance, develop and purchase the production of Bolivian oil and said that if the deal goes thru it will be partly because the United States forced Bolivia into Argentina's block by withholding recognition.

However, other Bolivians indicated their country probably would accept a contract with a satisfactory United States company for exploitation of Bolivian oil, provided the contract guaranteed an annual payment sufficient to support Bolivia's economy, regardless of the oil raised.

Britain Seen as U. S. Rival.

Such an arrangement would permit a company to hold the field in reserve, if desired, without keeping from Bolivia the profits for which her people are hungering.

But in a world dependent upon oil for transportation, especially in war, the possibility that some other country will obtain control of Bolivia's liquid fortune is a real one.

In addition to Argentina's offer, some Bolivians believe Britain—our greatest trade rival despite our allied war aims—may become our most significant competitor for Bolivia's oil.

Brazil Calls on Portugal to Cut Trade with Nazis

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—Brazil has joined the United States and Britain in asking Portugal to discontinue all exports of wolfram [tungsten] to Germany. Developments on current diplomatic conversations, it was learned today at the state department, are expected within a few days. Brazil always has held close ties with the "mother country."

Oh, Yeah?

MOVE TO BREAK STRIKE PERILING ARMY PENICILLIN

Detroit, Mich., May 26 [Special].—As the strike of 1,900 employes at two plants of Parke, Davis & Co., producer of blood plasma, penicillin, and smallpox vaccine for the army and navy, continued thru its fourth day, the company threatened to hire new employes to break the deadlock.

"This being an illegal strike," a company spokesman said, "new employes may be taken on to meet the needs of our armed forces at this critical time, and, of course, they will be retained on our staff and may result in some of the absent employes losing seniority or other rights, including pension benefits."

Pickets at Plants.

As pickets continued to patrol the entrances to the plants, it was feared violence might ensue if the company attempted to carry out its threat to bring in new workers.

Despite its need for additional employes, the company asserted today that "production of vital medical supplies for the armed forces is being continued." It added that "we have practically maintained production of several highly critical materials."

Seek Wage Increase.

The strikers are members of local 176 of the United Gas, Coke, and Chemical Workers of America [CIO], which on May 20 voted 1,347 to 285 to strike for a 10 per cent wage increase and renewal of a contract that expired July 1943.

After the strike went into effect last Tuesday, William H. Davis, chairman of the war labor board, ordered the strikers back to work on the strength of labor's "no strike" pledge. Chester Adamczyk, president of the local, challenged the WLB to prove it had any authority to interfere in the case.

U. S. CLARIFIES RULE ON HOLIDAY PAY FOR WAR PLANT WORKERS

The federal department of labor and the war labor board yesterday clarified the holiday pay status of employes who are given long Memorial and Independence day holidays and those who work on those days.

The labor department announced that employes of plants engaged in war work as prime or sub contractors or in making supplies for war plants must pay time and one-half for work on Jan. 1, July 4, Labor day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and "either Memorial day or one other such holiday of greater local importance."

This, according to Kenneth Montgomery, regional attorney, means that if an employer fails to select an alternate sixth holiday this year, he must pay time and one-half to employes who work on Memorial day.

The WLB explained that a previous ruling that employers might pay their workers who are given a holiday next Monday and Tuesday, July 3 and 4, applies only to retail stores and service establishments in Chicago and suburbs, and does not apply to war plants. It also said the order permits, but does not require, employers either to grant the longer holiday or to pay for it.

Turned Back by Pickets.

A company spokesman said some 200 pickets, including many women, ringed six gates of the plant and the workers made no attempt to pass the picket line.

From that dispute grew the shutdown of six other plants, a stoppage that ended only when the automobile workers' international union threatened disciplinary action.

One thousand striking bread truck drivers, members of Bakery Drivers' local No. 51 of the AFL Teamsters' union, voted to continue their walkout and to hold no more meetings until next Wednesday. "I told them to go back to work and let the war labor board decide their case," said James Hoffa, business agent of the union, "but they won't let any one tell them what to do."

The second day of the strike left Detroit restaurants, hotels, and retail stores virtually without baked goods.

Plane Parts Held Up.

At Saginaw, 2,500 employes of General Motors' Chevrolet transmission division were idle in a dispute over smoking regulations. The management charged that a UAW-CIO picket line this morning intimidated many workers ready to return to work. Edward S. Wellock, plant manager, said the stoppage halted production on "critical aviation parts and propellers."

A dispute over discharge of 22 cupola chargers at the Campbell, Wyant and Cannon foundry in Muskegon, Mich., came before the regional WLB today and resulted in an agreement to reopen the plant Monday. The dispute was reported to have made 1,850 employes idle and to have hampered production of parts for naval landing craft, army trucks and army tanks.

Approximately 2,000 members of local 9, CIO-United Automobile Workers, returned to work at the Bendix Products division of Bendix Aviation Corp., South Bend., Ind.

At Auburn, Ind., the Auburn Manufacturing Co., making jeeps, closed when 350 employes left the job in an unauthorized walk-out.

Loggers Quit Work.

In the Pacific northwest, hundreds of loggers left the woods and joined mill and boom hands who have stayed away from their posts in a protest against the WLB's denial of pay increases. The WLB advised the strikers it would not consider the dispute or appeal cases unless the men went back to work. Pine lumber manufacturers, in a telegram to President Roosevelt, asked the government to take over the 12 idle plants.

J. B. Fitzgerald, secretary manager of the lumbermen's industrial relations committee, said 8,500 to 10,000 were out, while labor spokesmen claimed between 30,000 and 40,000 were off duty.

At Providence, R. I., more than 1,900 workers on the day shift and an undetermined number from the night shift of the Browne & Sharpe Manufacturing company, machine tool manufacturers engaged in war contracts, staged a strike today over the employment of a woman to fill a job from which a man was transferred.

FCC HEARS PLEA FOR PERMIT ON CALUMET RADIO

An examiner for the federal communications commission yesterday conducted a hearing to determine whether the Calumet Broadcasting corporation shall be granted a license to reopen the radio station formerly known as WHIP, with studios in Chicago and Hammond, Ind. WHIP was sold in 1942 to a company headed by John W. Clarke, an investment banker now a major in the army, with Marshall Field a minority stockholder. The station management, which changed the call letters to WJWC, surrendered its license and shut down in February, 1943, because of "constant and regular operating losses."

Subsequently, the Calumet company, headed by the Rev. George F. Courrier, an assistant pastor of St. James Methodist church, acquired the physical assets of WJWC and set about seeking a license to reopen the station. Courrier headed the company which had operated WHIP.

Other officials of the Calumet company are G. Wilfred Courrier [a student and son of the Rev. Mr. Courrier], secretary and vice president; Doris Keane, treasurer and and vice president, and the Rev. Val Karcz, pastor of the Assumption church, New Chicago, Ind., vice president.

ORDER HANGING OF LIEUTENANT, SLAYER OF FOUR

Swancutt Is Unmoved by Court Verdict.

Camp Anza, Cal., May 26 (AP).—An army court martial convicted Lt. Beaufort G. Swancutt today on a charge of murdering four persons in a shooting affray at a dance here last March 5 and recommended that he be hanged at a time to be fixed by the President.

Lt. Swancutt.

Lt. Col. Duncan P. Frissell of the court informed Swancutt, immediately after the penalty was announced, that a two-thirds majority of the court was present when the verdict was reached and that all 12 members of the court were present when the sentence was fixed. The latter meant that hanging was voted unanimously.

He Shows no Emotion.

Swancutt, charged with murdering his girl friend and three other persons, appeared resigned to his fate. When the verdict was announced, he showed no sign of emotion. When the penalty was told, he likewise appeared unaffected.

The court, which has the power only to recommend judgment, will send a record of its proceedings to Col. J. K. Herbert, commanding officer of the Los Angeles port of embarkation for review.

The records there will be sent to the army's judge advocate general. A death recommendation also requires the signature of the President, and as long as six weeks might elapse before the review reaches this stage.

Taken Back to Hospital.

Swancutt, who has been confined to a wheel chair because of abdominal wounds suffered when he was shot by a policeman while resisting arrest after the shooting, stood when the sentence was announced.

Handcuffs were put on him, and he was returned to his wheel chair and taken to the detention ward of the hospital.

Informally, members of the court said that hanging is regarded as a dishonorable death.

The 31 year old La Crosse, Wis., officer, had offered no denial of the shootings but insisted he had no motive or intent to kill anyone, or any memory of such an occurrence. He contended he suffered a mental blackout the afternoon of March 5, from which he did not recover for several days.

During that interval, the government charges, Swancutt fatally shot Miss Dorothy Douglas, 19, and her friend, Miss Lourdine Livermore, also 19, at an officers' club dance; his superior officer, Capt. Aubrey G. Serfling, and, later, a Riverside policeman, Arthur Simpson.

The handsome young officer admitted that he was married and was the father of two children while he was paying court to Miss Douglas.

The Strays' Day

Forty dogs and three cats adopted from the Anti-Cruelty society at 157 W. Grand av. returned to the society's headquarters last night for the society's annual competition there. Because the entrys' pedigrees and blood lines are at best conjectural, the show follows a pattern of its own. The animals vie for such distinctions as the largest dog, the smallest dog, the muttiest mutt, and so on.

The smallest dog was found to be a Peke named Spuddie, owned by C. A. Ritchie of 2743 Jackson blvd., and his sister, Anna Watts. Red, a happy go lucky Irish setter, won the biggest dog prize hands [or paws] down. Red is owned by Mrs. Johanna Reuss of 4731 Winthrop av. Butch, entered by Miss Dolores Zavell, 1108 N. State st., was elected muttiest mutt by acclamation.

Tavern Man Makes Call and Winds Up in Court

Walter Jones, proprietor of a tavern in Aroma Park, Kankakee county, was fined $28.25 by Police Magistrate Edward Hoennicke in Kankakee yesterday on complaint of Peter Zelonka, who owns a tavern in Kankakee. Zelonka said Jones visited his place as a customer Thursday night and refused to leave at closing time. He had to use a baseball bat to get Jones out, he said. "He treated me just like we do the ordinary customers," Jones grumbled.

CENSOR CANTOR, THEN SILENCE VOICE ON RADIO

A song with too fervid words caused the National Broadcasting company to silence the voice of Eddie Cantor, the comedian, during a network television program Thursday evening, it was disclosed yesterday. Cantor's antics as he sang were viewed by television "lookers," but his words were eliminated.

Clarence L. Menser, vice president in charge of programs at NBC, explained the action was taken because of the network's "obligation to make certain that its facilities do not bring into American homes material which the audience would find objectionable." Menser said it was the second time the network had deleted Cantor's voice because of objectionable material. The NBC official said Cantor had ignored warning that some of the words were unacceptable.

The song that got Cantor into hot water is titled "We're Having a Baby, My Baby and Me."

TWO POLICEMEN SUSPENDED FOR TAVERN BRAWL

Capt. Wilber Kennedy of the Blue Island state police station yesterday announced the temporary suspension of State Policemen Alfred Peterson and William Hansen pending investigation of a drunken brawl early yesterday in the Green Villa tavern, 139th st. and Western av., Posen. Stanley Rzepa, proprietor of the tavern, complained that the policemen were intoxicated when they entered his place and quarreled with customers. He said they challenged Deputy Sheriff Thomas Pelligrino of the Willow Springs station when he attempted to quiet them and that one of the policemen pulled a gun.

PRESIDENT GOES TO HOSPITAL FOR PHYSICAL CHECK

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt went to nearby Naval hospital today for a physical checkup. He was in the hospital only a short time, and results of the examination probably will not be known for a week.

When the chief executive returned from a recent month's vacation in the south his personal physician Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, said he would send the President thru another physical examination to make certain he had thrown off the effects of a series of winter colds, flu, and bronchial trouble, even tho he appeared to be in excellent shape.

NEW DEAL FARM MEDDLING MUST END: GOV. GREEN

Calls It Chief Post-War Aim of Agriculture.

Schenectady, N. Y., May 26 [Special].—Removal of burocratic meddling and governmental bossing in agriculture will be one of the first post-war objectives of every farmer, Gov. Green of Illinois declared tonight in speaking on the farm forum of station WGY.

Gov. Green, outlining proposals for agriculture in post-war planning, added that "we are firmly resolved that American agriculture—strong and reliable in war—can and will emerge in the post-war world as a sound and prosperious economic unit—a powerful member of that inseparable trio—agriculture, labor, and industry, which forms the backbone of free American enterprise."

Rebuilding Is Chief Job.

The Illinois chief executive listed rebuilding of soil fertility as the first and most important job. He also urged the rebuilding of dairy and other live stock herds "slaughtered in the face of meat and man power shortages," repair and replacement of farm machinery, buildings, and farm equipment. Green insisted action must be taken even before the war's end to provide an abundance of commercial fertilizer at low cost, and erosion control.

"Second only in importance to the rehabilitation of farm property itself," Green declared, "is the construction of all-weather farm-to-market roads. The farmer must not allow intense interest in high speed highways of the future to divert attention from the need for country roads.

Some Still in the Mud.

"The public must not forget that in many areas of the United States the farmer is still in the mud—unable to get into the city, or to deliver his produce because of impassable roads that could be made serviceable thru the use of comparatively low cost materials."

Green urged improved farm living conditions, pointing out that farm families enjoy fewer modern improvements in the home, with schools below the standards of city schools, and without many of the recreational, health, and welfare services available to urban residents.

He outlined the work already accomplished by the Illinois post-war planning committee for agriculture which is in the hands of a group of independent farm men who understand the needs, problems, and desires of the individual farmer.

BRICKER BEGINS A DRIVE AMONG CONGRESS G. O. P.

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—An intensive campaign was opened at the capitol today for support of Gov. John W. Bricker's candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination. It was learned that the Ohio governor's managers had arranged a series of "good will" dinners to which every Republican member of congress will be invited during the next few weeks.

The first was given today by Rep. Ed Rowe of Akron and similar affairs will be arranged by each of the 19 other Ohio Republicans in the house.

Rowe commended the plan as a step that would "mean the nomination of Gov. Bricker if the delegates go to the national convention with open minds."

"Several of my guests," Rowe said in an interview, "were strongly committed for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey when they arrived for lunch, but left with open minds. The outlook for Gov. Bricker is bright and getting brighter."

OFFICIALS URGE REPEAL OF 1870 SUCCESSION BAR

Legislation to permit sheriffs and county treasurers to succeed themselves in office, which will be voted upon by a referendum ballot in the November election, was indorsed yesterday by the Sheriffs and County Treasurers association of Illinois, meeting in the office of Victor L. Schlaeger, Cook county treasurer.

The county officials are seeking repeal of an 1870 statute. Both houses of the legislature approved the proposed repeal at the latest general assembly.

Elmer Hoffman, deputy sheriff of Du Page county, and secretary of the sheriffs' and treasurers' association, said the reasons for the 1870 law no longer existed, because of the modern system of auditing and bonding.

WATCHMAN ENDS LIFE AT WORK.

H. M. S. asks: "Is there a designated date for an essential war worker to reach the age of 30 to be eligible for consideration in the over 30 years of age group? How is this determined?"

ANSWER: "Whenever the local board, the board of appeal, or the President classifies or reclassifies a registrant under the provisions of this memorandum [LBM 115], it shall determine the registrant's age as of the date of such classification or reclassification.

C. J. B. writes: "When I first entered the army I was having trouble with my teeth, so they decided it would be best to extract all of them. Since then the army has furnished me with complete upper and lower plates. They are not only uncomfortable but unbecoming when I wear both plates, so I decided to wear just the uppers which don't change my expression so much. What I want to know is can they compel me to wear both plates if I don't want to?"

ANSWER: You could not be compelled to wear either or both plates if you find they make your mouth sore and are so poorly fitted they change your facial contour. It would be best that you talk with the highest ranking dental officer where you are stationed and see if he doesn't want to do something about the situation. The chances are that if the original job is as poorly done as you indicate, the dental officer will see to it that you get a complete new set of teeth.

L. M. G. writes: "I have three sons in service, all under age. Two of the boys have made wills, but I'm told these are no good. My other son has written and asked me to send him a form will. It seems so unfair that these boys are old enough to fight but not old enough to designate who will receive their worldly goods. Can you advise me what to do?"

ANSWER: Almost every camp, post, or unit has a legal assistance officer who will be glad to assist the boys in making whatever disposition of their property they wish. The judge advocates indicate it has been their experience that only one man out of 10 in the army has enough of either personal property or real estate to bother with making a will. In most instances the necessity of making legal papers can be obviated very simply by signing over this property before going overseas to the persons they wish to have it. Most form wills would be thrown out by the courts anyhow, so it is best the men consult the legal assistance officer and really get their affairs in order.

C. L. M. writes: "My board tells me that I will receive notice to report for induction shortly. For obvious reasons I must move my wife and family into an apartment large enough to accommodate our parents as well, but the place we have found won't be available until June 15. My draft board says they can't help that and if I'm not here to move the family it's too bad. They say there is nothing in the regulations to permit them to grant a two week extension."

ANSWER: There is nothing in the regulations which prevents your local board from giving you any reasonable extension to get your family and parents settled in the new home. The war will not be won or lost if you are not in the army at the time your local board intended you to be inducted.

ONLY OBSOLETE FILES DISCARDED, NAVY DECLARES

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—The navy, replying to questions about congressional reports that it was dismantling its files on Communists, said no destruction of files has occurred or is contemplated other than the removal of "obsolete matter of no further value."

Chairman Vinson [D., Ga.] of the house naval committee said last night he had asked Navy Secretary Forrestal about the reports that files on communistic and other subversive activities were being dismantled. A naval spokesman said today:

"There has been no substantial change either in the organization or activities of the office of naval intelligence. There has, however, been a stringent general reduction in all intelligence personnel due to the man power shortage. This, together with continuing measures to eliminate duplications of the functions of other government agencies, has led to a considerable reduction in intelligence personnel. No destruction of files has occurred nor is any contemplated other than the routine removal of obsolete matter of no further value."

SOCIAL SECURITY NOT AN ISSUE, WARREN HINTS

Gov. Earl Warren of California, chairman of a Republican pre-convention platform committee on social security and welfare, indicated yesterday that no points of basic issue with the New Deal program on these subjects were raised at yesterday's session in the Blackstone hotel. Another meeting will be held here June 1.

The day was devoted to reviewing information gathered for the committee by a staff headed by Dr. Nell Carothers, dean of the school of business administration at Lehigh university, Easton, Pa. In the closed session with Gov. Warren were Gov. M. Q. Sharpe of South Dakota, Gov. John Vivian of Colorado, and two national committeewomen, Mrs. Dudley Hay of Detroit and Bertha Baur of Illinois.

After being treated by a Chicago physician for a poison oak infection in his arm, Gov. Warren and Mrs. Warren entrained for Hershey, Pa., scene of a conference of 44 governors next week. Harrison M. Spangler, G. O. P. national chairman, and Warren discussed the latter's duties as temporary chairman and keynoter of the convention.

ANTI-4TH TERM BODY WARNS OF 'STOOGE' CHOICE

Warning that the American Democratic National committee, anti-fourth-term organization, may become a third party movement if the Republicans nominate a New Deal "stooge," was sounded yesterday by Dr. Gleason L. Archer, national chairman.

"I am not condemning any one," said Archer, "but I am a little alarmed over the New Deal concern that Gov. Dewey of New York be nominated by the Republicans. The New Deal press is boosting Dewey, taking it for granted that he will be the candidate. The New Deal commentators, the English press and commentators are doing the same thing for him they did for Willkie."

Plan State Campaign.

Dr. Archer made the statement as Julius F. Smietanka, newly chosen Illinois chairman of the organization, made plans to solidify anti-New Deal Democratic sentiment in the state. Smietanka was collector of internal revenue under Woodrow Wilson and a member of the Chicago school board under two Democratic mayors.

"We are going to send organizers thruout the state," said Smietanka. "We are not going to sit at home and talk."

He said that he planned no speaking tour, but a concentrated downstate trip for organization. Both he and Dr. Archer said that their main concern was to break thru the fear Illinois Democrats have of speaking against the New Deal.

"There is much anti-New Deal sentiment," said Smietanka, "but there also is great hesitancy about expressing it. It is our job to give these people leadership and show them that they are safe in speaking out."

Early Meeting Planned.

A meeting will be called soon to make final plans for the tour, Smietanka said. He asserted that the state group also will open a drive for Democrats to attend the precaucus convention of the American Democratic National committee on June 19 and 20 in the Hamilton hotel.

Among those who attended yesterday's state meeting were Mrs. Gertrude Bowler, former national Democratic committee woman from Wisconsin; Atty. Francis A. Marnell, William J. Bossingham of Joliet, and James Monroe, once secretary to the late Sen. Lewis.

THE BIG FOUR.

From what Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden have said in the last few days in the house of commons it is plain that the declared goal of British diplomacy is a four power arrangement to rule the world. The active participants would be Britain, Russia, and the United States. China would be admitted for the sake of appearances.

The theory is that the Big Four among them can establish peace and maintain it. There is no doubt, of course, that any of the big nations that can get at any little nation can force it to take orders. If given a free hand Russia can read the riot act to Hungary or Yugoslavia and the United States has the power to make Spain behave. China, of course, is too weak to impose her will on any nation, no matter how weak or small.

It seems to be assumed that the big powers will never fall out. The assumption surely cannot be founded upon anything more substantial than a pious wish. When have the big nations ever behaved that way toward each other?

The points of conflict remain. Upon what terms can Russia and China agree? Which one is to have Mongolia? If the Chinese resist Communist infiltration will the Russians fold their hands? Stalin and Chiang have not told us.

And what about Chinese-British relations? Mr. Churchill has said he did not become the king's first minister to preside over the disruption of the British empire. China wants Hong Kong that the British obtained as part of the spoils of the opium war. The British say they made Hong Kong out of nothing. The Chinese say it is theirs by natural right. Who gets it? Churchill and Chiang have not told us of any agreement they have reached on the point or on any number of others like it.

Russia has a century old ambition to expand into India and a troubled political situation there invites intervention. The rivalry between Russia and Britain in the near east, from Persia to the Mediterranean, is another old story to which the final chapter is yet to be written. Russia is intriguing against Britain in this area today, including Palestine, where Stalin is seeking to alienate the Zionists from Britain. Churchill and Stalin have signed no self-denying ordinances regarding the near east and the middle east.

Mr. Churchill did not say what role America is to play in the post-war combination of great powers. How are we to keep the peace between Russia and China, China and Britain, Britain and Russia? If Britain, needing an ally on the continent against Russia, encourages Germany to re-arm, what are we going to do about it? Shall we side with our great ally, Russia, or our great ally, Britain?

It is a strange alliance that is being cooked up, an alliance in which we shall contribute three-fourths of the power and the other countries will divide four-fourths of whatever benefits may accrue. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull find nothing out of the way in this arrangement and, of course, Mr. Churchill welcomes it because he has reason to believe that the eastern Anglophiles will again place America at England's side as in the last two great wars.

Nothing said by any of the spokesmen for this delightful arrangement indicates a willingness on the part of any of the three powers overseas to abandon the rivalries that will make the wars of the future. Russia has so little confidence in any such plan of collective security that she is reaching out for border provinces to the west. England is taking steps to strengthen her imperial ties and to organize western Europe in her interest. China hopes that out of this war she will obtain a strong army and the industrial foundation for future military strength. All of them hope for American support in the future. If we enter this alliance it is altogether certain that all of our partners will intrigue for our backing in the clashes among them that lie ahead.

The notion that the allies of today will remain the allies of tomorrow is a vain one. A British wit recently put the matter in an epigram that deserves quotation:

England! Let God arise and smite our foes,
The arm of the Almighty let us borrow.
But enemies of God today, God knows,
May be our co-belligerents tomorrow.

For "England" you can also read "Russia" or "China." The moral is that any one who counts upon permanent friendships among great nations hasn't read history.

VETERINARY COURSES AT THE UNIVERSITY.

Illinois' lack of adequate training facilities for veterinarians, to which attention was called in the columns of THE TRIBUNE a short time ago, has caused Gov. Green to send messages to President Willard of the University of Illinois and President Livingston of the university trustees urging the establishment as quickly as possible of courses in veterinary medicine and surgery.

The governor's support of this project will be widely appreciated not only by farmers and stock raisers of Illinois, who stand to benefit materially from the research program, but also by the veterinary surgeons themselves, who have been properly concerned at the inability of young men who wished to enter their calling to get proper training in this state.

The governor urged that construction of a veterinary school, staffed with the ablest personnel obtainable, should be first on the school's post-war program. Buildings and laboratory equipment are essential to proper teaching of any technical subject, and, except insofar as existing facilities can be converted, the establishment of courses may have to wait for the resumption of building after the war.

It happens that the animal pathology building at the university, in which the nuclear courses would necessarily be taught, is antiquated and has already been scheduled for replacement. Its extension to provide space for teaching the other subjects necessary to a well rounded course should not be unduly expensive.

Buildings and laboratories alone, however, have never made a single well trained scientist. The value of the veterinary school to this state will be determined in the end, not by its equipment, but by its faculty, and the university can begin immediately to look for the best men available in the country in this field.

In this connection we observed previously that the veterinary faculty should be encouraged to engage in a well rounded and carefully planned program of research. All colleges, and state tax-supported institutions in particular, are under constant pressure to make themselves vocational schools. If they are to fulfill their higher functions they must resist this pressure and insist that they be supported in the research activities without which no university can offer adequate instruction to its students.

TOO MANY HOGS.

The week-end holiday, with Decoration day following on Tuesday, will be a period of serious apprehension for Chicago meat packers. Their problem is a vast oversupply of hogs, on which their butchers and cutters don't want to go to work until the middle of next week. They want to suspend work from Saturday to Wednesday, regardless of the injury that the extended holiday would work to farmers and consumers.

On days this week there were thousands of hogs in the pens in Packingtown on which no bids could be obtained by the shippers. The packers had bought all they could handle for several days in advance. The receipts were far in excess of the processing capacity.

Farmers who are running short of feed and are unable to buy any because of the government's restrictions on the sale of corn have been sending or bringing their hogs to market. Some leading markets, including St. Louis and Indianapolis, put a stop to new receipts by embargoes, and permit systems were introduced elsewhere. As the only place where hogs could be taken to be sold without restriction, Chicago has been swamped.

During the first four days this week receipts of hogs at Chicago were 34,000 more than in the same days the week before. In the 19 other leading markets for the same period receipts in these four days were 44,000 fewer than in the comparable days the previous week. Packers fear that thousands of animals crowded together in pens may not be able to survive a heat wave, if one should develop.

The steps taken by the government to control the production, distribution, and price of live stock have resulted in shortages and gluts. The controls have been unsatisfactory from the standpoint of every one involved. Growers, packers, meat shop owners, and consumers have complained bitterly. Even with hogs in great superfluity some of the butcher shops are unable to get enough pork loins to meet the demand.

From eastern cities come reports of meat shortages in the face of a record slaughter of live stock. When one of our associates went to lunch Thursday he took along a copy of a government report showing that more meat was dressed in the last six months than ever before, and that the government has revised upward by more than a billion pounds its estimate of the meat production for this year. It didn't help him get a rare roast beef sandwich at his favorite eating place. Before meat rationing was eased this restaurant always had rounds of beef, from which a generous slice on rye bread could be had for 20 cents. Since the meat ration has been made more generous, the restaurant keeper has not been able to supply his trade.

Why has beef become scarcer since it became more plentiful? A story in the Wall Street Journal last Tuesday suggested one answer. It said that "government agencies recently have been putting in big priority orders. The packers must fill these before releasing supplies to civilians." Thus, just after taking many meats off the ration lists, increasing the amount that could be bought, the government itself directed the packers to set aside increased amounts of the available supply for the use of the army and navy. At the same time that it increased the demand it reduced the supply.

But even that blunder has been surpassed. The government last week took action against a butcher for selling beef tenderloin to a consumer for $1.50. OPA had found it impossible to determine what was a fair price for beef tenderloin and solved its dilemma by requiring butchers to sell such meat only to restaurants and hotels. By preventing a housewife from buying tenderloin at all, it protects her from the $1.50 price and sends her to a restaurant, where the price is $2.50. Thus, we are saved from inflation.

Editorial of the Day

TALKING THRU A HAT.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Secretary Hull paid $500 for a hat woven of the finest panama with the straws as perfectly matched as a string of pearls. Vice President Wallace bought a new straw of rough, tough weave. Secretary Wickard obtained a plain, ordinary run-of-the-mesh weave.

Men's clothing purchases are dictated by practical need. So what do these foretell? Secretary Hull expects to hang that $500 hat on a rack where anything less elegant would be out of tune. Where could that be? A peace conference, of course.

Wallace, by selecting for durability rather than style, gives away his expectation of a long, long stay in China. Wickard, desiring to look just like any other farmer, does not expect to spend the summer in Washington.

So we have the answers. The peace conference will meet before straw hat time has ended. Wallace will be in China while votes are harvested, and Wickard will be out on the plains pleading for votes for his candidate, whose name is Roosevelt.

MR. PEPYS TAKES A TRIP.

27th May—Took a railroad ride last Sunday, my first in three years, and felt like an adventurer, altho it was only a suburban journey into the next county. Got off at Hinsdale, with two fellow pilgrims, in a downpour of rain, and found Mr. Flaks, the architect, waiting for us per agreement, who whisked us away to his home, where a bountiful repast was served. Then between showers in Mr. Flaks' car to the Arboretum, nine miles away, where we inspected the plantings and admired the blossoms, and often asked, "What kind of tree is that?" Walked in wet grass there, and two days later I came down with a cold in the head, so for the time being I am not much of a nature lover.

Forgathered at dinner with Mr. Pargellis of the Newberry, and then took him to see the printshop of my paper, at which he marveled, especially when a printer gave him a hot slug of type metal with his name on it as a souvenir. Then we went to his library to see an exhibition of quaint and curious volumes in many departments of learning, including a manuscript of seafaring lore written by a pirate, Capt. Elfryth or some such name, who forgot to put into it a message in cipher telling where he had buried his treasure.

Have done nothing else this week but sneeze and toil, and wonder if the rains, fogs, and mists have been coming from London by lease-lend arrangement.

THE ROAD TO MAGDALA.

He walked the road to Magdala
Beneath a Syrian sky,
Loitering in the hamlets
While an empire hurried by.

There passed a Roman ruler
With a satrap at his side;
There rode helmeted captains
Selected far and wide.

A howdah held a princess
From the land of Shem:
She wore a silken garment
And a royal diadem.

But the Walker saw the lepers,
And all the sick and wild,
And once He gave a red rose
To a little child.

Then He trudged on to Magdala,
Thru Galilee so green,
To forgive the seven sins
Of Mary Magdalene.

Choppy Among the Reformers.

It is not only people who get "in the groove," Choppy does, too.

When I take him out for his evening walk we always go out the front door, around the block, and in thru the back door, forming one of the many complete circles with which life is replete.

The other evening I took Choppy out the front and in the back, and all was well, but I discovered I had forgotten a loaf of bread at the delicatessen, so I said: "How'd you like to take another walk, Choppy?" Instead of taking off his leash to settle down for an evening at home, I took him out the front door again.

Choppy was so amazed he almost refused to go, but again we went out the front, stopped for the loaf of bread, and "in the groove" continued around the block and in the back door. All the way Choppy did nothing but stare at me in surprise, and when we got home he went and lay down on his favorite spot on the rug, but during the evening he would sit upright now and then with an expression which said: "I say, old boy, are you all right?"

Choppy had not recovered from this bold change from one to two walks a night when Larry and I decided we would call on a neighbor. It was warm that night, so we went out the back instead of the front, as we knew our neighbor's back door would be open. We locked the door and immediately, pandemonium! There were woofs, wails, barks, screeches, and much scratching at the door.

All right, so we let ourselves in again, went out the front door in approved fashion, down the walk where Choppy could see us thru his front window, and all was quiet in the Choppy flat.

Choppy likes things done up regular.

WHEN MY SHIP COMES IN.

When I was young, O, very young, I'd say,
"My treasure ship is coming in some day,"
And I would gaily plan the things I'd do,
The far-off lands I'd see, when this came true,

I still await the day my ship comes in.
But now my tired, anxious eyes begin
To scan horizons for the faintest sign
Of ships homecoming. Surely one is mine.
I do not care for all the wealth and gold
Of far-off countries, garnered in your hold.
I only ask you bring a fair-haired lad.
He is my treasure. Tall and khaki clad.
Come safely into port, that I may say,
"My ship came in. . . . My ship came in today."

The Tippy Taxi Taxer.

A deputy collector of the department of internal revenue hailed a passing taxicab. Flashing his credentials, he inquired of the driver, "What's your name?"

"Maxie Tripp," replied the driver.

"Do you accept tips?"

"Do I what?"

"Do you accept tips for trips?"

"Don't be sil! Where yuh wanna go?"

"Do you, Maxie Tripp, owe taxes on tips you accept from tipsters for taxi trips, or are you aiding and abetting the axis by avoiding tip taxes due U. S. on said taxi trips?"

"Mind goin' over dat agin?"

BELLADONNA IN PARKINSON'S DISEASE.

A FEW of our cases of influenza, complicated with encephalitis, will develop the typical "shaking" of Parkinson's disease. Unfortunately, symptoms may be difficult to control but, with skilful treatment and care in adjusting the dose of a suitable remedy, many of these patients can be kept comfortable. They will be able to function efficiently and carry on routine activities.

The disorder is rarely diagnosed until after the appearance of tremor, associated with weakness and tenseness of the fingers. This latter manifestation may accompany arthritis and we must not jump to the conclusion that paralysis agitans is to blame. As a rule, rhythmic movements will vary from four to seven per second, involving chiefly the hands and fingers. Later, rigidity may delay such procedures as dressing and undressing.

Although numerous drugs have been tried, belladonna seems to be the preparation of choice. In fact, it leaves little to be desired when we realize that the condition is chronic and cannot be relieved wholly. Various concoctions have been advised. At one time it was thought that an extract of the root [belladonna] with white wine supplied an important ingredient which was not found in other products. Altho this suggestion has not been abandoned, it has been possible to obtain excellent results with other forms of the medicine.

As we would expect, reports have varied. As has been pointed out repeatedly, the sufferer must not expect too much as the system of a given individual may prove resistant. Most observers, however, agree that the Bulgarian variety is a better therapeutic agent than the miscellaneous chemicals which have been employed routinely.

A recent study of 14 subjects over a period of six months revealed some interesting data. A woman of 45 was practically helpless. Her speech was so impaired that she could not be understood and it was necessary to dress and feed her. Her speech cleared and she resumed many duties, hitherto impossible. This was probably the prize case in this particular series.

A 54 year old man, who could only mumble, presented the typical pill-rolling activity of both hands. He was so disabled that he was confined to a wheel chair. The amount of the compound administered was increased gradually and, within a week or two, he could walk without assistance and muscle stiffness diminished until he could manipulate his digits and arms with accuracy.

With all these sufferers, the Bulgarian extract was used. Small quantities were prescribed at first. By degrees, more and more was given until the mouth became so dry as to be disagreeable. The dose was then fixed slightly below this level and maintained consistently. What happened? Several who had been depressed and emotionally unstable previously, became cheerful and contented. None experienced even minor ill effects.

We must recall that we are dealing with a malady which follows irritation of the cortex of the brain. Unless well handled, discomfort may become intensified. There is much to be said in favor of changing the treatment as occasionally belladonna will lose its influence. In such circumstances, some other medication may be substituted—at least, for a time.

EAR SYMPTOM.

R. W. writes: I am employed in a noisy factory and the other day I tried putting cotton in my ears. After about three hours, on removing it, I experienced a strong "swishing" in the right ear, which continued for several minutes. What would this indicate?

REPLY.

Try swallowing a few times after you remove the plug. If the sound persists, have the drums examined by a skilled ear specialist.

AVOID SUN.

R. N. R. writes: In a recent reply you stated that sun baths are harmful to an arrested case of tuberculosis. May they be taken in moderation?

REPLY.

Avoid the direct rays of Old Sol as you would a pestilence. You can be out of doors in the shade, however, and obtain enough ultraviolet to acquire a healthy tan.

UNDERWEIGHT.

G. P. writes: Can a person who suffered from severe malnutrition as a child ever expect to become normal in weight?

REPLY.

Yes, unless development of vital organs has been retarded. It is wholly a question of restoring nutrition.

IT SHOULD NOT.

Pete writes: After ringworm has healed, will a permanent scar remain?

REPLY.

Ordinarily, no, unless secondary infections [bacteria] have entered the picture. This explains why we try to control itching and hence scratching.

MANY CAUSES.

E. R. H. writes: What brings on bleeding gums?

REPLY.

Pyorrhea, inflammation [gingivitis], a food deficiency [scurvy], anemia, etc.

The People's War.

A strike began a few hundred miles up the road Tuesday. Nineteen hundred employes of Parke, Davis & Co. in Detroit walked out. Behind them they left their vital war time work—production of blood plasma, penicillin, and smallpox vaccine. Maybe it will be settled by the time this appears in print, but settled or not, a newspaper picture of the strikers is hard to forget. It showed two great lines of girls and women laughing and jeering as they formed picket lines.

That picture is as hard to forget as the letters that come from overseas. It is as hard to forget as the laconic, bitten-off words of a red-headed marine from Tarawa, a marine combat photographer. The marine, like all the other marines at Tarawa, went into the beach thru a hell of shellfire. The little boat in which he crouched tossed about in the hot, blue waters off that coral atoll, dodging 6 and 8-inch shells for 24 hours before it made a landing. When he at last fought his way in, it was to a tiny beachhead littered with dead and wounded.

"Right there at the water's edge," he said, "a doctor and some corpsmen were leaning over a marine. They were giving him plasma. Bullets were pinging like popcorn, and they were giving this man plasma. . . . We ran out of plasma three times at Tarawa. We had to comb the ships for more. . . . Once I saw them giving plasma to six men at once. They stuck a bayonet in the sand and had six bottles dangling from the top and had the men lying around it in a circle."

So the girls laugh and jeer as they go on strike. You remember it, and you remember the assistant surgeon general of the United States army, a man weary and tired from coping with global disease and global wounds. He took 15 minutes off from his busy routine in Washington to discuss war medicine. "The greatest medical advance in the war?" he mused. "Unquestionably, blood plasma." Then he began to talk of it, how they had originally estimated that two pints would suffice for a wounded man but had soon learned the routine wound requires four pints, and that many, many men require six or eight, and whole blood on top of it, transfusions given by other soldiers. What the army and navy needed, he explained, was a tremendous plasma reserve, but somehow they never could get sufficiently ahead.

You remember, too, the man back from Italy, wounded, who told of plasma on the battlefield. He was a doctor, and he knew. The shell that killed his major splintered his right arm and hip, so he knew about plasma both from giving and receiving it. But he didn't talk of himself. He talked of the others. "First comes morphine," he said. "Then plasma. The effect is immediate. The man is gray and going fast. Then, like that," with a snap of his left hand, "comes a slow wave of color, of life. . . ." From him, as from all who have seen plasma in action, you get the idea that here lies resurrection.

So 1,900 plasma, penicillin, and smallpox vaccine workers, and none need elaborate on the worth or necessity of any of the three, went on strike, and many of the strikers were girls and women and, as they stood in line, they laughed and jeered. Maybe the management was at fault. Maybe the workers did have right on their side. It isn't for this department to say, and certainly it does not know. Maybe there was greed on both sides. But what of the moral aspect? You'd think they would arbitrate forever, in a matter like this, before they would halt production, these men, these women, most of whom surely have some one fighting in this war. The day, Tuesday, May 23, and the picture, of American women and girls betraying their womanhood, will be hard to erase.

TIME AND A HALF FOR POSTAL WORKERS.

Chicago, May 21.—A bill has been introduced by Rep. Weiss of Pennsylvania to provide time and a half pay for postal employes working more than 40 hours a week.

Most postal employes are required to work 48 hours a week all of the time and much more than that during rush periods. During the month of December all employes work 12 hours a day, 84 hours a week, yet they are not given time and a half.

Thru government intervention, most industrial employers are now required to pay their employes time and a half for overtime. Employes of the postoffice ask, "If it's right for industrial workers to get extra pay for overtime, isn't it right for government workers to receive the same treatment?"

LESSON FROM ABROAD.

Chicago, May 24.—Soldiers returning from foreign countries tell of the dire poverty of many of the people as compared to the United States. Those people have always been ruled by rulers more interested in themselves than in raising the standard of living of their people. Here in our own country we, for the most part, have ruled ourselves and have constantly improved our living conditions. Americans should learn a lesson from the conditions in foreign lands and guard most carefully their priceless heritage of freedom, thru which they are able to live their own lives quite comfortably. GHOST TOWN REFRIGERATORS.

Savanna, Ill., May 22.—How can any one have any respect for our OPA and New Deal when they build such a ghost town as the Blackhawk village north of Savanna, with $2,000,000 of our money and an electric refrigerator in every empty apartment, which we farmers cannot get at any price?

You can drive by and count rows of them, all unoccupied, built with our money and equipped with refrigerators we cannot have. Should not this make a lot of new Republicans?

A BANKER'S PLAN TO STOP STRIKES.

Charlotte, Mich., May 22.—It seems to me it is a criminal offense for workers in a war plant to go on a strike while our President and some congressmen do not attempt to stop it for fear they will lose their votes. However, I believe the bankers of the United States can stop all this providing they [the bankers] go on a strike and refuse to cash any checks of any person who has been on a strike in a war plant. I am an American and wish to help win the war. F. H. BEACH.

"A" CARD DRIVER ASKS A BREAK.

Glencoe, Ill., May 19.—Holders of gas ration books A, B, and C pay the same state motor vehicle annual license fee. Why penalize those who hold A books?

With limited travel, cost of highway maintenance, patrol supervision, etc., must be materially reduced. The holder of an A book can avail himself of only a limited use of the highways.

Why not give the fellow with an A book a fair break and base the price on annual state license fee in direct relation to the class of ration book he is entitled to? L. T. BARNETTE.

THE RUSSIAN BEAR.

Oak Park, Ill., May 23.—Says a front page news item: "Maliutka, 3 month old Russian bear cub, arrived here today in a plane of the air transport command as a gift of the Red army to the United States government."

Hooray! At last! We're getting something back on lend-lease! But are they going to pay us off in cub bears? It's bruin-ruin, I call it! AMERICAN.

WANTS GOLD STAR PINS.

Chicago, May 23.—For two months I tried to purchase a gold star pin to wear in memory of my son. I asked in every department store and almost every jewelry and gift shop in the loop and in my neighborhood. All I got from the clerks was, "Gold star pin? Why do you want a gold star pin? Don't you mean a blue star service pin or a flag?"

Finally, in desperation, I had a jeweler make one for me. Now, congress appropriates billions of dollars for this, that, and the other thing all over the world and I surely think they could appropriate a few dollars to have gold star pins made to present to the fathers and mothers whose sons have given their lives.

BOOKIE PHONES.

Chicago, May 23.—How is it possible for handbooks to have from 4 to 10 or more telephones, while women like myself whose husbands are in service, and who need phones because of small children, can't get them?

Are these "bookies" serving the public health and welfare? The telephone company says you must be in business or serve the public. How come? Also what happens to these phones after the "bookies" are raided? Are they given to the people who have been waiting months, as I have?

BROWNIE.

BUT THEY'RE FOR THE FOURTH TERM.

Spring Green, Wis., May 22.—If President Roosevelt had many months ago requested congress to pass legislation providing criminal prosecution of strikers in plants producing war materials, as advocated by Judge Evan A. Evans at commencement exercises of Lake Forest college, the United States would have been saved many disgraceful proceedings, waste of millions, besides encouragement to the enemy. A. J. G.

4 VOTE MARGIN SAVES FEPC'S SKIN IN HOUSE

Anti-Racial Bureau Given ½ Million in Budget.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—The house, approving a 1 billion dollar appropriation bill for 17 war agencies, today continued the life of the President's fair employment practices committee by a margin of only four votes.

The final vote on the FEPC, which was charged on the floor with stirring up racial trouble under the guise of preventing employment discrimination against Negroes, came only a few hours after the chamber had tentatively voted, 141 to 103, to abolish the agency by denying its requested appropriation of $500,000. The vote to reverse this was 123 to 119.

The FEPC, set up by President Roosevelt in June, 1941, without authority from congress, is headed by Malcolm Ross, who has been denounced on the floor of the house for alleged Communist sympathies. Its announced purpose is to prevent employment "discrimination because of race, creed, color, or national origin."

Tarver Battles Agency.

The amendment to abolish the agency was offered by Rep. Tarver [D., Ga.] and received almost solid support from southern Democrats as well as some Republicans and northern Democrats.

Describing the FEPC as a "pettifogging and trouble making busybody," Tarver told the house that the effect of its so-called "nondiscrimination" orders has been to "promote discontent where none existed instead of contributing to war unity."

Rep. Hobbs [D., Ala.] declared that FEPC orders have actually discriminated against white workers by ordering Negroes to work in certain jobs whether they want to or not. The effect, he said, is that white persons have been ousted from their jobs and left without employment.

The principal defender of the agency in the floor debate was Rep. Marcantonio [A. L., N. Y.], who was elected to the house with Communist support. He charged the opponents of the agency had "misrepresented it."

Votes Down OWI Trim.

The house rejected two other proposed reductions in funds in approving the appropriation bill, carrying 1 billion 31 million dollars for the 17 agencies' operations for the 1945 fiscal year. The vote on final passage of the bill was 247 to 58.

It voted down, 121 to 69, an amendment by Rep. Dworshak [R., Idaho] to trim 5½ million dollars from the office of war information's allotment of $58,625,000.

Rejected on a voice vote was a proposal by Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] to abolish the labor production division of the war production board by denying the $660,000 requested for its continuance. Keefe argued that the division only is duplicating the work of many other federal agencies dealing with labor problems and that its chief function is "to make more jobs for the burocrats."

THE QUESTION.

What is the most pleasant or unexpected surprise you have had while in the service?

WHERE ASKED.

Service Men's center, No. 2, Congress st. and Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS.

James Wright, private 1st class, Asheville, N. C.—I was in a hospital in the South Pacific. One day the doctor came on his usual rounds and said a hospital ship had some extra space and a group of us were being sent to a hospital in the United States. It was the happiest and most pleasant surprise I've ever had.

Rachel Landahl, seaman 2d class, Youngstown, O.—As a civilian I was never satisfied with any job I had and always wanted to be doing something else. So I joined the SPARS. I've never been so surprised and pleased with any job in my life. I have just finished boot training. They let me select my own station.

Bill Allen, radioman 2d class, Arlington, Mass.—While aboard ship in the Pacific I applied for officer's training school. I had no hope of being chosen, but thought I had everything to gain and nothing to lose. My application was accepted and I was sent back to the United States for training. That was a real surprise.

Jack Nisbett, seaman 2d class, Los Angeles, Cal.—The most pleasant and unexpected surprise I've had in the service is Chicago. When I was sent here I thought, "Just another city—wonder how long I'll be here?" But I was all wrong. I think Chicago is a service man's paradise.

Eulalee S. Smith, seaman 2d class, Chester, W. Va.—The most unexpected surprise I've had in the service is the individual attention they give to each member of the SPARS. I joined thinking my life as an individual was over and that from then on I was just part of a company. They do everything to make us happy.

Lloyd Hitt, private 1st class, Attalla, Ala.—When a group of us left on furlough we were happy-go-lucky boys with 15 days ahead of us to spend as we desired. Just before we left our station we were unexpectedly surprised when told that in addition to our 15 days we were granted four extra days for traveling.

ROSS WOODHULL, SANITARY BOARD PRESIDENT, DIES

Succumbs at 65 After Stroke Last Fall.

Ross A. Woodhull, 65, president of the board of trustees of the Chicago sanitary district and former alderman, died yesterday in his summer home near Land O'Lakes, Wis. He was 65 years old.

Ross A. Woodhull.

Mr. Woodhull suffered a stroke last October and his health declined steadily. His residence was at 7100 South Shore dr., in the 7th ward, where he had been alderman. During his illness he had lived in the Blackstone hotel before going to his summer home.

He was unmarried. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Nell Hayward, 7100 South Shore dr., and Mrs. Cora Renner, Pasadena, Cal.

The body will arrive tomorrow in Valparaiso, Ind., where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday from the Bartholomew chapel to the family lot in Graceland cemetery.

Officeholder 27 Years.

Mr. Woodhull held elective offices in the city and sanitary district continuously for 27 years. He was named to the city council from the 7th ward in 1917 and continued there until 1928, when he was elected to the sanitary district board to fill a vacancy. After four years he was reëlected for a regular six year term and then was named for a second full term. He was elected president of the board in 1934.

Despite his reputation for care in financial matters, he made the motion in 1921 which raised aldermen's salaries from $3,500 to $5,000 a year. He was chairman of the city council finance committee under Mayor Dever.

He was made chairman of the sanitary district finance committee in 1929 and continued in that post, in addition to the presidency, until his death. The southwest side sewage treatment works, the Racine av. pumping station, 82 miles of sewers, and the control gates and lock at the Chicago river mouth were built under Woodhull's administration with a 68 million dollar loan and grant from the public works administration. Bond issues were refunded at lower interest rates and trimmed by 50 million dollars.

Born in Indiana.

He was born in Wheeler, Ind., Oct. 1, 1878, son of Emmet and Eliza Jane Woodhull. He was graduated from Valparaiso High school and Valparaiso university and came to Chicago in 1901, where he operated the Woodhull Ice Cream company until 1917, when it was consolidated with the Hydrox company.

He was president of the National Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers from 1908 to 1910. He also was in the real estate business.

COUNCIL HANDS MAYOR 1ST JOLT IN ELEVEN YEARS

Refuses to Confirm 2 Appointments.

For the first time since he was elected in 1933, Mayor Kelly yesterday met defeat in the city council on a motion to suspend the rules for immediate action on an appointment.

The mayor requested the council, 14 members of which were absent, to confirm, as a committee of the whole, his reappointment of Samuel Levin and Irvin Mollison to five year terms on the board of education. Ald. Harvey [2d] and Ald. Moss [5th] moved suspension of the rules so the appointments could be approved without reference to a committee, but Ald. Bohling [7th] threw the wrench that jammed the customary clockwork of the council.

Six Aldermen Block Mayor.

"Council rules should be followed, and the matter of the appointments should be given to the committee on schools for consideration and report," said Ald. Bohling. "It is time the council looked into the school board situation."

On the motion to suspend the rules, the vote was 28 for, and 6 against. A two-thirds majority of 34 votes was necessary for suspension. Action on the appointments was postponed to the next meeting, June 14. Aldermen voting against suspension were: Bohling [7th], Brandt [33d], Waller [43d], Merryman [45th], and Hilburn [47th], Republicans, and Gurman [40th], a Democrat.

School Refunding Plan Wins.

The council approved the education board's issuance of 11 million dollars in bonds to refund the $22,300,000 issue of 1934, which bears 4½ per cent and which does not mature until 1954.

Ald. Harvey introduced a resolution, referred to the judiciary committee, to let Chicago service men take civil service examinations at their stations.

Ald. Keenan [49th] presented a resolution requesting Gov. Green to call a special session of the state legislature to consider eliminating the 6 million dollar poor relief tax levy and cutting the sales tax in half.

GIRL DIES AFTER FUMIGATION GAS IS USED IN HOME

An inquest will be held this morning into the death yesterday of Mrs. Catherine De Vasier, 18, of 6240 May st., who was found unconscious Thursday in her apartment, which had been fumigated Tuesday. Her brother, Thomas O'Dea, 10, who was also overcome, was reported recovering yesterday in County hospital.

John Campbell, a representative of the Smithereen company, 216 W. Jackson blvd., which had fumigated the apartment, told health department officials yesterday that the firm had not had a fatality in 50 years.

The apartment had been properly sealed before the fumigating, he said, and a watchman remained there for 22 hours until employes wearing gas masks removed cyanide gas containers. Tests for the presence of gas were negative, he said. Keys to the apartment were returned to the family Wednesday, and Mrs. De Vasier and her brother slept there that night, while other members of the family remained another night with neighbors.

SOLDIER BARES TRICK USED BY HERBERT HAUPT

Had Jap Skipper Put Him in Irons.

Herbert Haupt, one of six Nazi saboteurs whose mission to destroy American war industry ended in death in the electric chair, yesterday was pictured as a Hitler-heiling young American renegade, deeply imbued with Nazi doctrines, by an American army sergeant who knew Haupt in Germany.

The sergeant, William Leibl, stationed at Camp Forest, Tenn., was a government witness in the second treason trial of Haupt's father, Hans Max Haupt, before Judge John P. Barnes and a jury of six men and six women in United States District court.

Under questioning by Assistant United States Atty. Finn, Sgt. Leibl testified that he had gone to Germany with his father, an interpreter in the Studebaker automobile plant at South Bend, Ind., in 1939.

He asserted that he became well acquainted with the young Nazi, entertained him in his home, and frequented night clubs with Haupt and other young Germans.

Defense Protests Testimony.

Defense Atty. Paul A. F. Warnholtz objected to Finn's quizzing of the witness regarding conversations he had held with Haupt. Judge Barnes made no ruling.

"We were in a Stuttgart night club," Leibl said, "when Haupt told me that his reason for leaving America was that the federal bureau of investigation was hounding him for distributing pro-Nazi propaganda.

"He said he went to Mexico, obtained money from the German consul at Mexico City, and chartered a plane to South America, where he boarded a Japanese freighter bound for San Francisco," Leibl continued. When the freighter put in at San Francisco, Haupt prevailed upon the Jap captain to place him in irons and keep him below decks as an undesirable, Leibl quoted the saboteur as relating. This was done as a precaution against investigation of the ship by federal officers, Leibl said Haupt had told him.

Links Saboteur to Defendant.

Evidence linking Herbert Haupt with his father, the defendant, was given by Mrs. Barbara Kluczyk and her husband, Stanley, owner of the flat building at 2234 Fremont st., where Haupt and his wife, Erna, reside.

Judge Barnes overruled a motion by Warnholtz to rtrike Mrs. Kluczyk's testimony as irrelevant. The court also denied a second motion—to exclude Earl J. Connelly, assistant director of the FBI, from the courtroom on Warnholtz' contention that he was looking at witnesses in an apparent attempt to intimidate them.

Andreas C. Grunau, 6361 Leoti av., superintendent of the Simpson Optical company, one of the saboteur's targets in Chicago, also was a government witness. He testified that Herbert Haupt, who once had worked for the company, had applied for his old job after his return to the United States.

WAR CONTRACT AGAIN ISSUE IN WLB HEARING

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—The war labor board today called a hearing for next Wednesday to determine whether the terms of the old contract of Montgomery Ward & Co. covering employes at the Chicago plant should be ordered extended pending negotiation of a new agreement.

In telegrams to officials of the company and the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail employes, the board said it had voted to hold a public hearing "at which the parties are directed to appear and show cause why the terms and conditions of their expired contract should not continue to govern their relations pending the negotiation of a new agreement by the parties or until the further order of the board."

The last WLB order, which resulted in government seizure of the plant because the company refused to comply, had ordered extension of the old contract only until there had been a new determination of the exclusive bargaining agent.

OPA Seeks Injunction Against Bed Spring Firm

The office of price administration filed suit yesterday against the Independent Bed Spring Corp., 1106 Liberty st., for treble damages in an unspecified amount and an injunction to restrain the firm from selling springs at prices higher than OPA ceilings. Paul A. H. Shults, area director, said he had received complaints "from all over the country," and that the company had disregarded several warning notices.

BIDDLE REBUKED BY SENATORS IN WARD SEIZURE

Dilatory Tactics Charged.

6. The national labor relations board is chargeable with "dilatory tactics" because, after having been petitioned by the union to hold an election at Ward's on Feb. 14, it did not order the election until May 2, a week following the seizure.

The subcommittee's report was signed by Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.], subcommittee chairman and chairman of the senate judiciary committee, and Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.]. Sen. McFarland [D., Ariz.] third member of the subcommittee, filed a dissenting report charging the committee had not made a full investigation.

The report, based on studies of records of the government agencies involved and on the reports of judiciary committee investigators who made investigations in Chicago, was submitted to the senate judiciary committee today.

Tabled Until June 12.

The subcommittee's conclusions were tabled until June 12 to permit interested parties to file applications for hearings, protests or briefs. The committee will meet June 19 to decide future action.

In its attack on Biddle, the report stated:

"The letter dated April 22, 1944, from the attorney general to the President, which presumably was the impelling force for the issuance of the executive order, contains erroneous, misleading, irrelevant, and immaterial statements and allegations which have tended to confuse rather than to clarify the facts in the minds of the people of the United States.

"The letter not only recites facts which are unconfirmed by the records of the federal departments and agencies concerned with the labor controversy, but also contains conclusions which are inconsistent with and unsubstantiated by the facts which he recites.

Hold Order Unnecessary.

"The committee particularly considers unwarranted and untenable the conclusion that the dispute could not be settled promptly and peacefully without resort to executive order."

The committee further stated that the President's power to seize plants, under authority of the war labor disputes act, can be used only to take possession of "any plant, mine, or facility equipped for the manufacture, production, or mining of any articles or materials which may be required for the war effort."

The report said the committee "has been unable to discover any facts tending to show that the Chicago facilities of the [Ward] company are 'equipped for the manufacture, production, or mining' of any product whatsoever."

No Authority Cited.

The report also chided Biddle for asserting the President is in possession of "an aggregate of powers." Biddle did not cite any constitutional or statutory provisions to bear out his contentions that the President had unlimited powers in a labor dispute, the report said.

The action of Secretary of Commerce Jones in the Ward seizure also came under the fire of the subcommittee.

"Inasmuch as the chief executive had no constitutional or statutory authority to issue the executive order in question, any action taken under such order was without actual authority," the report charged.

"The subcommittee believes it is regrettable that the secretary of commerce did not seek a court order compelling compliance with the executive order instead of resorting to the armed forces to fortify his actions."

Late in the day Biddle issued a statement in which he asserted he had been denied an opportunity to appear before the subcommittee.

He asserted the subcommittee made no reference to the Supreme court cases which recognize the government's constitutional powers in cases comparable to that of the Ward seizure, all of which he said "were referred to in a copy of my brief used in the Montgomery Ward proceedings and filed with the subcommittee."

W. H. THOMPSON ESTATE IS SUED FOR BACK TAXES

Victor L. Schlaeger, county treasurer, filed a claim in Probate court yesterday against the estate of William Hale Thompson for $3,535.54 due on personal property tax assessments for 1931 and portions of 1940 and 1941.

Thompson, former mayor, died March 19, leaving a cash hoard of $1,500,000.

His personal property, including cash and bonds, was assessed in 1940 and 1941 at $3,052, supposed to have represented 37 per cent of its full value. His personal property tax in those two years was $301.85. In 1931 the assessed valuation of his property was $41,625.

WSA FACES QUIZ ON DISMISSAL OF SHIP INSPECTORS

Workers Who Reported Pay Roll Padding Fired.

New York, May 26 (AP).—Officials of the war shipping administration will be asked to explain why they are reducing their force of field inspectors, some of whom have reported widespread pay roll padding in shipyards, Rep. Capozzoli [D., N. Y.] said today.

Capozzoli is chairman of a house committee which in the last two days has heard testimony that ships under repair here were overloaded with workmen, that scores of workmen slept or gambled aboard ship during work hours and that the cost-plus contract system was abused.

Witnesses included some of 200 WSA field inspectors who had appeared at the hearing by invitation after they had received notice that their jobs were to terminate next Wednesday. They said they had sent a telegram of protest today to President Roosevelt and members of congress.

Veterans of War.

The telegram said that all of the 200 inspectors scheduled to be dismissed were honorably discharged veterans of the present war whose work had resulted "in the saving of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money and in expediting the flow of vessels to the far corners of the world." It asked that the President and congressmen "bring to light" the reasons for the termination of their jobs.

Capozzoli said the committee, investigating ship repair conditions, next would meet in Washington, D. C., probably on next Wednesday.

Sidney K. Cartwright, port of New York field service manager for the WSA, testified before the committee that his office had turned over to the federal bureau of investigation a number of reports of pay roll padding and labor overloading.

Week's Pay Totals $246.

Cartwright said the office also had called to the FBI's attention a number of cases which he said involved gambling by workmen aboard ships and a case of a workman whose "take-away" pay for one week totaled $246.

"We investigated this case of the man who was supposed to have worked 20 hours a day for seven days in one week," Cartwright said, "and we found his 'take-away' pay was $246. This meant that if you count the deductions for war bonds and withholding taxes, his gross pay amounted to at least $300 for the week. The FBI is working on that case."

Cartwright testified that an assistant and he boarded a vessel being repaired in March by the Cardinal Engineering company in Brooklyn and found between 400 and 500 men employed when "about one-half this number was needed for the work."

20 Men Play with Dog.

"There was a tremendous amount of idleness, loafing, and horseplay on that vessel," he said. "My assistant found 20 men on the main deck with a mongrel dog.

Gambling aboard the vessels was common but difficult to locate. Because one workman would hammer on the deck as a tip to the players to scatter, Cartwright said.

Thomas V. Flynn, president of the New York port council of shipyard employes, testified earlier that if there was any overload of labor it was "due to management, because of the cost plus system."

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS OPA IN THREE RULINGS

Reverses Decision by Judge Barnes.

New Storm Over OPA

Washington, D. C., May 26 [Special].—Disclosure today that the power to subpena business men and their records, granted to the administrator of the office of price administration under the emergency price control act, had been delegated by him to more than 100 OPA regional administrators and district office directors brought from Rep. Hartley [R., N. J.] an assertion that he would insist on a thoro investigation by congress. The delegation of authority was issued by Administrator Bowles May 13, but withheld from the press.

In three opinions concerning powers of the office of price administration, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday issued these decisions:

1. The OPA may require business men to appear before examining boards for closed hearings without attorneys or court reporters.

2. The OPA may suspend a company from business for violating a regulation of the agency.

3. A federal District court may issue an injunction forbidding a company from piercing OPA price ceilings.

District Court Reversed.

The first decision, written by Judge Sherman Minton, reversed a decision by District Judge John P. Barnes, who had held, in a case involving 15 meat dealers, that congress did not give the OPA or other government bureaus the power of federal and state grand juries. Judge Barnes had held that the bureaus must hold open hearings.

The appeals court held that courts did not have power to decide the kind of investigation the OPA should conduct. It held that the case concerned "was an investigation, not a hearing," and that "investigations are usually held in private, just as a grand jury carries on its investigations in private."

Attorney Criticises Decision.

"Perhaps these investigations are not court proceedings, but many times they have the same effect," said Atty. Herman Aaron, who represented one of the 15 meat dealers. He said the appeals court opinion was an invasion of business men's rights.

District Judge William H. Holly was upheld in the appeals court's opinion recognizing the right of the OPA to suspend business men. Judge Holly had denied the Joliet Oil corporation an injunction restraining the OPA from enforcing a 30 day suspension order. The appeals court held that in war time the President may regulate the flow of gasoline.

Ward Injunction Upheld.

An injunction issued last September by Judge John P. Barnes forbidding Montgomery Ward & Co. from exceeding price ceilings was upheld in an opinion written by Judge Otto Kerner.

The OPA charged that Ward had exceeded price ceilings in some sales of women's, children's, and misses' outer wear. Ward insisted it had complied with the price line limits, but that conclusive proof either way was impossible. The company also challenged the validity and reasonableness of the OPA regulation that fixes price ceilings and prohibits retailers from introducing new lines at higher prices. The appeals court held that Judge Barnes had not abused his discretion in enjoining the company.

FREEDOM OF AIR BILL AIMED AT SMEAR ARTISTS

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.], of the senate interstate commerce committee, said today failure of the radio industry to clean its own house by the elimination of smear broadcasts has forced congressional consideration of legislation designed to provide true freedom of speech on the air waves.

Wheeler, in coöperation with Sen. White [R., Me.], Republican minority leader, introduced a bill last Tuesday which would forbid the commercial sponsorship of "news items or news analyses or news commentaries."

Admittedly a drastic proposal, the ban was defended by Wheeler in an interview. He said the broadcasts of such commentators as Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson, financed respectively by manufacturers of a beauty lotion and a patent medicine, were an affront to the listening audience.

Urge Sustaining Basis.

"What newspaper would dare insult its readers," he asked, "by printing two paragraphs of news or comment and then interpolating a reminder to buy a laxative or face preparation? Then another paragraph or two and a further suggestion to purchase a breakfast food or a headache powder?

"News and comment on news matters should be put on a sustaining basis. Under the present system, commercial sponsors are using the public interest in foreign and domestic affairs by sponsoring any one with a pretty voice who can peddle a rehash of government handouts and press wire reports under a Washington date line.

"Radio should follow the example laid down by newspapers in presenting unhampered, factual news and stop the practice of selling news broadcasts."

The Wheeler-White measure also recommends a program of impartiality for the presentation of discussions on public issues. Wheeler recalled his own experiences, dating back for several years, as evidence of the radio industry's departure from this standard.

Opposition Restricted.

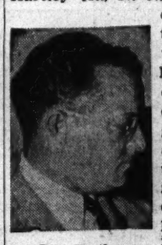
"During the court packing fight the President and the attorney general were given the freedom of all the networks while the opposition was confined to limited broadcasts," he remarked. "When I debated Dean Landis in Chicago his speech was carried thruout the nation but when I spoke, I learned afterward, all stations west of the Mississippi were cut off with the exception of a special line to Montana."

Wheeler said provision must also be made for a person attacked in a radio broadcast of the Winchell-Pearson type to reply before the same audience. A newspaper correction is available to the same reading audience, he noted, whereas a reply on the radio to a smear assault is too often not heard by the same listeners, unless it is made to the special audience attracted by the originator of the slander.

HEAR 60 MILLION GOES TO CLOTHE EUROPE'S WOMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Rep. Hartley [R., N. J.], this afternoon disclosed additional information about the luxury seersucker dress which he displayed to congress yesterday as a sample of the New Deal's generosity to foreigners at the expense of Americans. He said he was informed today that the dress was part of a 60 million dollar order of women's apparel to be distributed by the allied military government in territory liberated from the Nazis.



Rep. Hartley.

"If this information is correct," said Hartley in an interview "the army is spending, for relief, money that congress appropriated for arms, in quantities heretofore unsuspected. The bill for clothing male residents in theaters occupied by our troops probably amounts to another 60 million dollars. By the time we've also furnished food and clothing, the AMG expenditures may approach the size of the program contemplated by UNRRA [United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration].

6 Million Piece Order.

Hartley yesterday told the house that the dress he exhibited, better than any available to American women and girls under war production board conservation orders, was part of a 6 million piece order from the government for lend-lease or UNRRA.

"I'm going to seek an investigation to determine all of the now obscure facts regarding the New Deal's profligate generosity with taxpayers' money," said the congressman. "I'm told there is much undercover rivalry between British and American manufacturers to produce for the world-wide relief program and that Americans are unhappy with their prospects.

"A combined production and resources board is guiding the allocations for making the clothing, food, seeds, medicine, and farm equipment for these relief programs. It's a board of three men, one representing Great Britain, one representing Canada, and the third, William Batt, representing the United States. This board was created by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. Our participation was never passed upon by congress.

Uncle Sam the Fall Guy.

"In the UNRRA setup, the contribution of each participant is to be made at least 10 per cent in cash and not more than 90 per cent in manufactured goods. Some of our do-gooders in Washington are willing that the American contribution shall be 50 per cent in cash, depriving American industries and labor of contracts for the benefit of foreign industries and labor in the critical economic era to follow the collapse of Germany. Uncle Sam is again being played for the fall guy."

BRIBERY TRIALS SET FOR JUNE 12 AT MASON, MICH.

Lansing, Mich., May 26 [Special].—Kim Sigler, special prosecutor for Judge Leland W. Carr's one man grand jury investigating state affairs, revealed today that the first mass trial growing out of the inquiry will be conducted at Mason, the Ingham county seat, 12 miles south of here, rather than in the Lansing branch Circuit courtroom.

Under the law, quarterly court terms alternate between Lansing and Mason with the May term falling to Mason. The trial of 23 defendants bound over under an indictment returned by the grand jury several months ago, is scheduled to open June 12, Sigler said, and a court order was issued today calling 50 additional talesmen to report for possible jury duty at that time.

The original indictment named 26 finance company executives, legislators, and former legislators accused of exchanging bribes during the 1939 session to influence finance company and small loan legislation. Two defendants already have pleaded guilty and a third never has been served with a warrant.

Surrenders to Police.

Newark, N. J., May 26 (AP).—Newark police reported today Armand E. Robichaud, assistant public relations director of the Beneficial Management company of Newark, had surrendered here to face proceedings for his extradition to Michigan, where he has been charged with conspiracy to bribe members of the state legislature.

MUSIC TEACHER SEEKS $10,000 FOR DOG BITES

Mrs. Elizabeth Kidd, director of music integration at New Trier High school in Winnetka, filed a suit for $10,000 damages yesterday against Glenn A. Burrs, publisher of Down Beat, a swing music magazine, charging that his two dogs have bitten her so severely that she cannot continue her career as a concert pianist and authority on ancient musical instruments. Burrs and Mrs. Kidd have homes in Glen Oak Acres, a section of Glenview. Mrs. Kidd stated the dogs, not muzzled, attacked her on May 17. Atty. Harry G. Fins, who filed the suit in Circuit court, said the dogs injured tendons in Mrs. Kidd's legs.

Memorial Day Travel

MEANS SO MUCH TO THOSE IN UNIFORM

Please help make room for them on the trains

At this crucial stage of the war, troop movements must go on, holiday or no holiday.

Also thousands of men and women in uniform will be going home on short leaves—possibly their last holiday at home for a long time to come.

This means extra heavy traffic for the railroads—so heavy, in fact, that there may not be enough seats or berths to accommodate all the civilians who desire to make trips over the Memorial Day period.

We are sincerely sorry that war needs keep us from having more equipment available, but we are sure you want the troops and others traveling on war-important jobs to get first call on what we have.

Travel will be extraordinarily heavy on May 26, 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31 . . . many passengers will have to stand . . . so, if possible, try to go and return before or after the dates indicated. Please avoid all unnecessary trips.

DAY by DAY on the FARM.

The FARM by Gail Compton

DON'T worry too much about getting corn cultivated, the manager at the Fox river farm advises. The only reason for cultivating the crop is to kill the weeds, and the job should be done only when needed.

Farmers should be satisfied with going thru their rows three times, for additional cultivation usually does not increase the yield, but only adds to the cost of the crop, he said.

With this advice the manager exposes what amounts to a fetish with many farmers. Often they will let a hay crop rot in the field in order to boast that they cultivated their corn four and five times during the season.

Killing Weeds, Main Idea.

The important part of the cultivating is done soon after the corn sprouts. Then it is necessary to keep the weeds down so they will not compete with the young corn for moisture and plant food. The theory that cultivating works up a necessary soil mulch which conserves moisture has been exploded. Cultivate to kill weeds, is the experts' advice.

The manager has in mind cultivating his special 10 acre patch only twice if the weather is right. With this little field he is trying to break the world's record in corn production per acre. Any cultivating done at the farm also will be as shallow as possible.

Corn roots do not grow in the dry loose layer of dirt left by cultivation, but expand in the plowed section beneath it. Deep cultivation destroys this growing area. Setting the shovels deep on the cultivator also increases the risk of damaging the corn roots. Many farmers often do more harm than good to their corn field when they plow the rows.

Rains Delay Field Work.

Talking about corn cultivation almost falls into the class of wishful thinking. Heavy rains have showered both farms just often enough to keep field work at a minimum. Altho the Fox river farm men have a sizable piece of acreage planted to corn they still have a long way to go. At the Wheaton farm the men still are looking disgustedly at the soggy soil which has prevented them from getting the ground plowed for planting.

It will be well after June 1 before all of the corn is planted at the Wheaton farm. The Fox river men should finish up around that date if they can get some dry weather. In both places, however, the first cutting of hay is maturing so rapidly it will be time to harvest it before the other jobs are cleaned up.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE next 10 days is the best period for major plantings of sweet corn in northern Illinois, according to J. W. Apple, field entomologist of the Illinois natural history survey. Corn planted during this time should be less susceptible to corn borer than plantings of any other period.

The corn borers are now in the pupal stage. The moths will emerge during the first week of June and the peak of the egg laying season probably will be around June 15 in northern Illinois. The moths deposit their eggs on corn plantings which are furthest advanced and corn planted during the next 10 days will not be sufficiently advanced to attract them. Earlier plantings of sweet corn and field corn are most likely to receive the egg deposits.

Gardeners usually make three to five plantings of sweet corn to insure a succession harvest, but if a large amount is to be preserved by canning or freezing this is the best time to plant it.

Some Parents Make a Fetish of Cleanliness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We were having dinner with the doctor and his wife, and the children had stayed up for the occasion. After dinner their blonde little girl of 6 passed the candies to us and naturally took one herself. As she was about to pop it into her mouth she dropped it on the floor near the sofa, then picked it up and put it in her mouth, without any protest from her father.

"Well John," said one of the guests, "I'm surprised. Don't you object? How about sanitary precautions?"

"It won't hurt her," replied the doctor. "It's impossible to live a germ-free and dirt-free life. Of course I believe in reasonable measures and even in certain extreme precautions, like those that safeguard our milk, for instance. But it's possible to overdo the matter and get into a really fearful frame of mind about it."

Now you may not agree, on the detail of the candy, with our doctor friend. Certainly you wouldn't want your child to pick up a candy from the street, nor would you give your baby his bottle after he had playfully thrown it on the dirty sidewalk. But it is possible to make your family miserable over the threat of germs and by carrying sanitary measures to a painful perfection. It is possible to get a "contamination complex."

Presbyterians to Wait Next Merger Move

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 156th general assembly of the Presbyterian church yesterday served notice on the Protestant Episcopal church that the latter communion's general convention of 1946 should come up with something specific in the way of a program for merger of the two churches. There was no "or else" in the resolution stating this position, but it was made clear that the Episcopalians started the plan seven years ago and that the next move still is up to them. Sessions of the assembly are being held in the Stevens hotel.

At the Episcopal general convention last October, it was voted "to continue its negotiations with representatives of the Presbyterian church," but that nothing be done until advice has been sought from the Lambeth conference of Anglican and Episcopal bishops. The Lambeth conference, named for the palace of the archbishop of Canterbury, where the council is convened, usually meets decennially. The Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church and president of the Federal Council of Churches, is expected to visit the assembly Monday or Tuesday.

The plan for merger of the parent Presbyterian church, meeting here, with the Presbyterian church of the south progressed yesterday when the "plan" of union was ordered distributed for study thruout the church. This distribution was withheld by the Detroit assembly last year. Suggestions to the committees until Jan. 1, 1945, were asked in yesterday's resolution.

One of the features of the plan is the proposed establishment of 19 synods thruout the country, two of which would cover Negro work in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi, where the present Southern church has its greatest strength.

In another resolution the assembly warned the Federal Council of Churches to bar from its membership denominations which do not affirm the deity of Christ. Among these is the Unitarian church. The resolution instructed the Presbyterian delegates to the next biennial meeting of the council that Presbyterian membership in the council "must be contingent upon its [the council's] maintaining its evangelical position as set forth in the preamble of its constitution."

The council preamble emphasizes the deity of Christ, which is not required as an article of faith in Unitarian and Universalist churches.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

The recent step-by-step pictures on the preparation of cream puffs have aroused much reader interest. Most of the puff bakers had excellent results, but unfortunately a few lost their way in following one important step—the cooking of the initial mixture of butter, flour, and water. These ingredients should be cooked together only until thick and glossy, forming a smooth ball which leaves the sides of the pan clean. If overcooked, the fat will ooze out of the mixture and result in an undersized cream puff. Remedy: Add a very small amount of water and cook until smooth again before adding the eggs.

Undercooking results in a thin mixture which bakes into flat, unattractive cream puffs. Remedy: If mixture is too thin and spreads when dropped onto the baking sheet, place saucepan over hot water, stir constantly, and cook just long enough to stiffen.

"In making cakes which call for sour cream, can the store-bought sour cream be used?"

Yes, delicious cakes result when cultured sour cream is used. Do not use sour cream in place of sour milk or buttermilk, however, without altering the recipe somewhat. The fat in the recipe should be reduced when this substitution is made or the cake will be too rich and crumbly.

"I have started to mix a cake," came an emergency call, "and find I have no cake flour. Can I substitute bread flour?"

For each cup cake flour required, use only ⅞ cup sifted bread flour. If desired, substitute 1 tablespoon cornstarch for one of bread flour, and sift well together. This makes a finer textured cake, more like one made with cake flour, but tends to give a dry product.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 26. — Well, whatta you know! Walt Disney's talking with Ginger Rogers about "Alice in Wonderland," Ginger to play Alice, with rest of the characters cartoons. It's a wonderful idea. After all, Ginger looked 12 in "Major and the Minor." [We've just forgotten "Lady in the Dark."] That would be smart casting — it's so unconventional, most people would say, "Why not a little girl like Shirley Temple, as she was a few years back?"

Ginger Rogers. Cary Grant. Myrna Loy.

Alice calls for an actress. Nothing's been signed, but there's lots of excitement about it. . . . Cary Grant's next will be at R. K. O. It's "The Greatest Gift." Harry Cohn has first divvies on him, but his script isn't ready, and David Hempstead's is much farther advanced. . . . Myrna Loy is off to New York as soon as she finishes "Thin Man Comes Home," to pick up her Red Cross work again. I asked her husband, John Hertz, when the divorce would go thru. He said, "That's a pretty hat you're wearing, Hedda."

Come, Come, Now Joan.

Alexander Brook is here painting portraits of our top stars for a magazine. Bette Davis' is already finished. He'll do Merle Oberon, Ingrid Bergman, Greer Garson, Jennifer Jones. Joan Fontaine was approached but turned it down when told she couldn't have the portrait. . . . Louise Randall Pearson, who wrote "Roughly Speaking," is living up to her book. She couldn't resist a second hand French car because it sported a bright red silk lining. . . . Mike Romanoff is purring over an interview in the Hobo News. It's that good. . . . Monty Woolley was recalled from Saratoga for retakes on "Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Now he's soured on the Irish.

That's Good Teaming.

Watched Rita Hayworth and Marc Platt do one of their dance routines at Columbia. They'll be delightful in color on the screen — both have red hair. Rita was wearing a pair of new gold slippers. I asked why. "O, I always rehearse in the shoes I'm going to dance in, so when it comes to being photographed I won't fall on my face," she answered. Marc's living in back room of a private home in Laurel Canyon — in spite of which his wife, baby, and mother are on their way out! I'd call him an optimist. . . . And, speaking of homes, it won't be long before the Ronald Colman heir arrives. Yet the help who've made their home happy walked out in a body.

Well, I Swan!

You'd probably say Cecil De Mille is our most successful producer. I would have, too, until I saw some facts and figures. But it happens that a man you've heard very little about gets that honor. He's Carey Wilson, pappy of the Hardy pictures. His name isn't even on the screen. He says, "People aren't interested in my name. All they want is a good picture." The 15 Hardys that he's helped make cost 4 million dollars. To date they've grossed $21,000,000. You figure out the profit. . . . Bill Powell Jr., taking his naval instruction at Princeton, came down with typhoid. His father heard thru Comdr. Dick Barthelmess that he was on the mend.

'Twas a Lush, Lush Party.

Seems like everybody was at the Gypsy Rose Lee party for "Belle of the Yukon." A nostalgic note entered when Robert Servite did "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." He's charming. Said he, "I was afraid to tackle it, fearing my memory might not hold out, but am grateful it did." Later he was besieged for his autograph. He spends nine months here, other three in Canada. Gary Cooper arrived flanked by five members of his family. Paul Shields [Mrs. Cooper's stepfather] whispered to me, "I'll bet you don't remember when we met." I did. It was in 1913. . . . Sam Wood and his daughter, K. T. Stevens, giggled over a secret they wouldn't let out. . . . When Dinah Shore sang, George Montgomery went into a trance.

Something New, Anyway.

Janet Blair wore a special hat to "Once Upon a Time" opening. Sitting in a nest of green velvet and silk lettuce was Curly, a caterpillar, right cute with a body six inches long and the antenna rampant, as it should be. . . . I asked Tommy Mitchell how he liked the new portrait gallery of John Dekker and Errol Flynn. Said he, "At opening, I listened to foreign voices saying, 'now don't tell me—I saw that painting last in Paris.'" Then they discovered Tommy, gushed toward him with, "O, Mr. Laughton, we think you're wonderful!" "Well, Mr. Laughton's a good actor, too," said Tommy, "but I don't like to lose my identity. So I said, 'I believe you're mistaken. I'm the brother of Tommy Mitchell.'" "O! And what do you do?" "I'm a doctor. I specialize in social diseases." And from then on Tommy was let alone.

Shorts.

I saw some shots on the screen of Van Johnson in "30 Seconds Over Tokyo." You won't believe until you see them how the boy has improved. Metro is even now making overtures to get Mervyn Leroy back on its list, as soon as he's finished "The Robe" for Frank Ross. . . . Andy Devine goes from a priest in one picture to a barber in "Babes on Swing Street." . . Joe Kramer made a successful screen test, but preferred being a second assistant on "Doughgirls."

Marriage and Family Must Be Free of Law, Archbishop Asserts

Marriage and the family are two Christian institutions the law "must not invade, seek to control, or dominate," Archbishop Stritch of Chicago averred last night before the Catholic Lawyers' guild in the Chicago Bar association. The archbishop, concluding a series of four lectures under auspices of the guild, said such unlawful invasion led to the destruction of the sanctity of the home in axis nations.

"We acknowledge that man does not subject himself in all his person to civil authority," Archbishop Stritch emphasized. "Our law guarantees the enjoyment of certain rights which do not derive from civil authority and these rights must remain inviolate."

Photoplay Pays Five Sullivans Stirring Tribute

"THE SULLIVANS."

A 20th Century-Fox picture, directed by Lloyd Bacon, featuring Selena Royle, Anne Baxter, Thomas Mitchell, Bobby Driscoll, James Cardwell, and Edward Ryan, and presented at the Apollo.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is the story of the Five Little Sullivans and How They Grew. All in capital letters, we'll put 'em, because, as you know, they were very special Sullivans. And yet they are typical of thousands of other Sullivans—and Joneses and Majewskis and Cohens—American fighting men, whose roots reach deep into the rich soil of American faith, ideals, and purpose, and whose grit and laughter even now have Tojo and the paper hanger stuck and squealing, if not quite defunct.

"The Sullivans" sticks closely to the true story of the famous Waterloo, Ia., brothers whose devotion to their country and one another has warmed every American heart and been an inspiration. Picking up the lads when they were little shavers—five musketeers, all for one and one for all—the movie carries them thru childhood and adolescence to and beyond the moment when they made the supreme sacrifice. . . .

There was little money in the Sullivan household, but there was a heap of love. There was a mother—whose life was all heroism, with NO heroics; with a soft bosom to cry on—and a dauntless eye to quell disturbances perpetrated by six hot headed Irishmen—one, the papa. . . . There was a dad devoted to his brood of five sons and one daughter who was boss—but who COULD be wrong—and wasn't above admitting it and shaking hands after the battle was over. A motherly young sister—who was later to join the navy of Uncle Sam and carry on from where her brothers left off.

The tale told is, really, just one of average American family life—that which the Sullivans and the rest of our boys are fighting to maintain.

Highlighted are the episodes when the lads cut out the side of the house—with the noblest of intent; in which George, the eldest, unjustly accused by his pop, runs away—but returns; those connected with the romance of Al, the baby, with his one and only love—whom he marries—but not before his brothers have messed things up for him, and, with their parents and sister, made a pilgrimage of contrition to square matters; those dealing with enlistment, service—and the finale in which posthumous honors are accorded.

The casting is truly perfect. . . . Especially will you love Bobby Driscoll as little Al—always the tag along; Selena Royle as Mom, and Thomas Mitchell as Pa Sullivan, freight conductor who's never been late on the job in 33 years.

The picture has many a laugh. The tears you wipe away are tender, but never bitter ones.

I am sure the living Sullivans, present at the movie's preview the other night, must have gone home with a song in their hearts. Their boys—and the myriads like them—live on!

See you tomorrow.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Now that Lt. William W. Haerther of the naval reserve and Mrs. Haerther are at home in Lake Villa for a few days from his station in Mobile, Ala., friends of the family are hearing with interest about Mrs. Haerther's unusual war job.

Every day, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., Mrs. Haerther, clad in weather-wise dungarees, bosses a team of eight men dock workers who handle war cargo for the water division of the port of embarkation in Mobile. As a supervisor for the army transport command, Mrs. Haerther sees that important war material of the less than car lot variety goes aboard ships which go overseas to battle areas.

The Haerther family reunion in the suburb has been arranged because Lt. [j. g.] William Hearther Jr. is home on leave from duty in the Solomons. Another son, Daniel, an apprentice seaman in training with a navy V-12 unit at the University of Notre Dame, Ind., also is at home over the week-end.

Lt. Haerther Sr. is attached to the port director's office in Mobile.

When John Warren Webster enters the navy, the war work he has been doing will be left in capable hands—those of his wife, Suzanne, whom he has been training in the machining and assembling of the tiny but important lamps which go into optical, surgical, and dental instruments for use by the army and navy medical departments.

Up to now, Mrs. Webster has handled only the administrative portion of the business transacted by Warren Lamp company, 303 Eugenie st., but is ready to step into the technical duties when her husband leaves for service. She holds a master's degree, but had no scientific training to prepare her specifically for her war job.

Miss Mary C. Larson, 20, a new employe of the intelligence department of the Chicago signal corps inspection zone, came to her present war job from another in Alaska.

After graduation from business college in Chicago last year, Miss Larson, whose home is in Red Oak, Ia., accepted a civil service position with the army engineers corps constructing the Alcan highway. Her first post was at Dawson Creek, B. C., where she was a secretary for the director of highway patrols, and later she was transferred to the court reporting department in recognition of her ability.

Miss Larson subsequently worked at posts in White Horse, Fairbanks, and the Skagway. She was one of 30 American women on the clerical staff. Social life at the officers' club and at dinner-dances filled the women's evenings, including New Year's eve, when it was 60 degrees below.

The national office of WOW [women ordnance workers] has announced the establishment of three new posts of the organization in Chicago area plants manufacturing war materials.

Miss Elsie Mushow is presidet of the new unit, No. 42, at the Solar Manufacturing corporation; Mrs. Eloise Payne of unit 43, Jensen Radio Manufacturing company, and Mrs. Shirley Susta of post 44, Corn Products Refining company.

WOW post 21 at the Central Screw company will coöperate at 8:30 o'clock tonight with the Co-ops, another women ordnance workers' organization within the company, in sponsoring a benefit dance for service men in the arcade at 3816 West 26th st.

Antiques Show and Hobby Fair to Open Today

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Another antiques exposition and hobby fair opens today in the Hotel Sherman and will continue thru Wednesday. Instead of a yearly event, it is now becoming a semi-yearly show, since war time, oddly enough, is boom time for collectors.

At the last exhibition the crowds were greater than ever before, and this time dealers and collectors from as far distant a point as the Pacific coast have made reservations here. O. C. Lightner, managing director, explained that the fair brings together "kindred souls who follow the same bent."

"The wife of a western copper magnate hobnobs with a Chicago school teacher who likes the same pattern of early glass," he said.

Doll collectors, collectors of old coins, buttons, stamps, lustre ware and old china, of pewter and copper; women who are avid eyed over Victorian jewelry, or Battersea boxes, or fans, or music boxes, all meet and mingle at the hobby show.

Extremely odd are some of the items treasured by collectors. Early radio sets, for example, are now being sought after, Mr. Lightner says. Altho most of these instruments have no loud speakers and only one person can listen at a time, they have the fascination of curios and a crowd inevitably gathers around them.

Old sheet music, stereoptican slides, items of circus history, and every kind of furniture are other attractions.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Seasons.

I'm glad, my dearest, if you go
That still there'll be the winter snow,
And still the autumn leaves of brown
And spring's soft, circling clouds of down;
I'll need them, darling, when you've left
Or I shall be forlorn, bereft.

I'm glad, my dearest, tho I vow
I'd rather have you here and now;
I would not look to summer skies
But find the summer in your eyes
And know that He made man and lass
Who made the seasons come and pass.

White Collar Citation.

It's so easy to do the glamorous job. And not so easy to do the small, unromantic tasks. About a month ago, St. Luke's hospital was faced with an acute help shortage, especially in floor maids who care for the patients' trays and, in the evenings, pick up the supper trays, wash the dishes, dry them, and set up the breakfast trays for the next morning.

The office girls, in the hospital, offered to go up on the floors after 5 o'clock and work until 7:30 or 8. Some volunteered for three nights a week and some brought friends to help. Then, the need was explained to the Northern Trust and International Harvester girls. Supper, carfare, a clean apron, and eternal gratitude were all that were proffered. Seventy volunteers signed up.

Now at the hospital they are saying that if these girls who work all day still have the spirit and kindness to come forward and help in such an emergency, well—St. Luke's can't find enough words to express admiration for white collar girls.

The Female of the Species.

The reason WAC enlistments aren't what they might be is because the girls [bless 'em] are required to give their correct ages upon enlistment, and it would take more than a global war to make them do that. RICK MORAN.

Dis and Data.

Maybe you won't think it's funny but when the Alliance of Business and Professional Women—those astute feminine executives—received a treasury citation they couldn't decide where to keep it. . . . Some inquiring mind set the public library into a frenzy of research lately by asking "What did men wear during the age of Methuselah?" . . . There is an employe publication Shop News which puts out a yearly supplement of photographs of employes' children. Photographers are sent to the houses so the pictures are uniform—and isn't it a nice idea? . . . Du Pont has brought out a safety color code for industry, using color as a visual aid to safety and a warning against danger spots. . . . The proportionate number of telephone calls made for Information has decreased perceptibly since Pearl Harbor when 33 out of every 1,000 telephone calls were made for Information. . . . There is a WAC librarian at Fort Riley, Kas., who prizes a scrapbook made by Gen. MacArthur, then a first lieutenant.

America's only Bra with "The Lift that never lets you down"

The only difference between a good and poor figure often is a matter of a clever brassiere. In Perma-Lift a miracle happens at the base of the bra-cup where a patented cushion inset softly lifts your bosom, holds that firm rounded contour, never becomes limp or lax through constant washing and wear.

Bra and Bandeau styles, $1.25 to $2.50.

Thru the Looking Glass

Comes the warm weather and one of woman's best friends, we have found, is a capacious box of feathery dusting powder. It's one of the most inexpensive of luxuries but it pays off in comfort and freshness to an astonishing degree. And did you know that surveys of one kind and another show that women rate it high as the toiletry gift they'd most like to receive? You might remember this next time you shop for a present for any woman, of any age.

One of our favorites for an all-'round dusting powder is strictly on the dainty side. Its scent is that of gay garden flowers, its box is pretty. It has absolutely no relation to school of thought about perfumes that insists scents should be menacing, the container exotic. This one is quite restful by contrast. The fragrance suggests roses and lilies and verbena, all nice, sweet old fashioned flowers; the box, with dainty little colorful flowers spattered over its white surface is old fashioned, too—and are we getting old, or IS there something of enduring charm about the sweet simplicity of grandmama's day?

Anyway, this is the kind of powder you like to use after your bath in the morning, whether you're a working woman or a housewife. It adds feminine accent to routine cleanliness. It's the kind of thing you will like to use when you're simply wilting from the heat. Because it cools your flesh magically—and scents it prettily, too—you feel you can dance lightly over the steaming pavements, sneering at every thermometer you see.

And it has practical uses. In this year of girdles with the flexibility of sheet iron you'll use your dusting powder lavishly before you attempt to pull yours on. The veiling of powder will make the skin surface smoother and it won't hurt at all to flip plenty right into the girdle, too. And don't forget, on hot days especially, that a light sprinkling of feathery dusting powder over your feet and inside your shoes will be as balm to the burning flesh.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The Civic theater is a charming little playhouse, cool and comfortable and cozy, and with any kind of break from the booking cards it might have opened last night with Katharine Cornell in "Lovers and Friends." Instead, it drew a blank from California called "School for Brides," brought to us by Howard Lang, who was co-producer of "Good Night Ladies," and who may possibly consider himself an expert on what Chicago likes.

Now I may say, at the risk of repetition, that I never considered our 100 week champion a masterpiece of stagecraft, or precisely what I would of my own free will choose as an evening's entertainment. But it had Skeets Gallagher, who is a brilliant farceur, a funny scene or two, and some exceptionally ornamental girls. "School for Brides" has Roscoe Karns, fewer, if any, funny scenes, and far fewer, tho some, pretty girls. That's no fair exchange—that's robbery.

Back of all the simpering shenanigans at the Civic is what passes for the plot. A promoter opens a phony school for brides as a spouse-trap for Mr. Karns, who plays a millionaire just divorced from the seventh candidate for his cash. He joins the faculty to help choose the valedictorian, who is to become the eighth. The promoter's pretty and angry wife is an extra starter, and the actress masquerading as dean takes off her shellrims and wins the prize, if that is the right name for it.

All this is accomplished with a minimum of skill in playwriting and directing, and without much help from the actors, altho Miss Hayes and Miss Turner have a cool competence that refuses to be downed. The stage is full of sweater girls and girls in play suits and girls in negligee, and it often is as dull as a store window full of handsomely garbed dummies. The play is too cheap and dull to bring them to life.

'Danger List' . . . . . By Christianna Brand

(Copyright: 1944: By Mary Christianna Lewis.)

SYNOPSIS—Joseph Higgins delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park military hospital. Dr. Gervase Eden hopes to escape from a fashionable practice. Jane Woods, dress designer, gives up her career to become a nurse's aid. Esther Sanson, against the wishes of a neurotic mother, offers her services. Dr. Moon, whose only son was killed, hopes to escape loneliness. Dr. Barnes, exonerated for the loss of a life under the anesthetic, welcomes a change. Frederica Linley, whose wealthy father remarries, prefers nursing to home. Nurse Marion Bates is in search of romance. Within a year, one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates. It's love at first sight for Dr. Barnes when he sees Frederica. During an air raid Esther remains on duty to help Frederica. Joseph Higgins is brought in with a fractured femur. Esther looks after him. A second victim arrives. During a lull Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Freddi. He is followed by Dr. Eden, who kisses her. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a scene. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther takes Higgins to the operating theater. Dr. Barnes gives the anesthetic, under which Higgins dies. On the night Higgins was admitted, a masked figure took the key to the operating theater from its hook. Inspector Cockrill asks Dr. Barnes to demonstrate his anesthetising apparatus. At a hospital party Sister Bates declares she has proof of the murder. She is found by Woods in the operating theater, murdered. Cockrill summons six persons, Doctors Moon, Eden, and Barnes, Freddi, Woods, and Esther. None seems to have an alibi. Cockrill asks what constitutes a lethal dose of morphia and finds all six have some morphia tablets. He says the murderer took two grains of morphia out of the poison cupboard in which Bates had hidden the proof. As Cockrill outlines his idea of the killing, Esther becomes hysterical. Before reporting for duty next morning Esther closes the window to keep the room warm for Freddi.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

FASTENED WINDOW.

Eden and Barnes were both standing at their bedroom windows, Barney shaving, Eden apparently full dressed. "They're up early this morning," said Woody, waving to them as they ran in thru the main gate to the park.

"I suppose they couldn't sleep, either," said Esther. "Heaven knows how we are going to get thru our duty today."

"Thank goodness I'm off this afternoon," said Woods.

They met Maj. Moon puffing round the park in a vest and running shorts. "You look like a heavenly little steam roller!" said Woody, laughing at him.

"Got to keep the boiler down," said Maj. Moon, patting it.

"You don't happen to have a couple of bob for a florin, do you, Maj. Moon? We've run out of gas, and Frederica won't be able to get her breakfast."

"Don't worry, Maj. Moon; Frederica can easily get her breakfast in the mess for once. O, gosh, we are late! Come on, Woody. . . ."

Freddi looked tired and nervy and was rather cross. "You're awfully late, Esther, and I'm simply worn out."

"I'm so sorry, pet; and another awful thing is that I forgot about my turn for a shilling in the gas, and we've run out, so you'll have to get your breakfast in the mess."

"O, well, all right, don't worry; I can manage. I'll get in two or three hours' sleep before I skip up to town."

"I'd forgotten you were going today; that's why 'Barney's up so bright and early. Would you like me to come over and wake you at eleven?"

"I'll be all right. I've got the alarm."

"Well, no alarm would wake me after only two or three hours' sleep on top of night duty; not to count a slight matter of investigation into murder during the night. By the way, will the detective let you go?"

"We won't ask him," said Freddi coolly.

"My dear, he'd be simply livid."

"I couldn't care less," said Frederica. She added: "Don't remind Woody that I'm going. She always thinks I'm going to fade away if I don't have my quota of rest and she'll get hold of Barney and tell him not to take me. I'm as tough as old boots," said Freddi, "but Woody likes to think of us both as shrinking violets. It does something cosy to her mother urge."

Gervase Eden was not a man who liked early rising. Freddi stopped short in her tracks at the sight of him, but after a moment's hesitation, went steadily forward. He came quickly to her, putting out his hands in a familiar gesture, but hurriedly drawing them back.

"Freddi—I wanted to talk to you a minute."

"Well, I don't want to talk to you," she said, stonily.

He was hurt; but he went on, doggedly: "Well, all right, if you feel that way, Freddi, it makes it easier to say what I was going to; or perhaps I needn't say it at all."

"Well, don't then. I don't want to hear it," said Freddi.

His dark eyebrows met together in a frown, half humorous, half hurt. "Have it your own way, my dear," he said, and stood aside for her to pass thru the gates.

She remained uncertainly on the other side. "Well, come on," he said, surprised. "Aren't you going to your quarters?"

"Yes, I am: when you've gone back to the mess," said Freddi, remaining where she was.

"O, my lovely Freddi! You couldn't possibly be afraid that I was going to leap upon you with a hypodermic full of morphia, filched from the theater last night . . . ?"

"Of course not," said Freddi, tossing her head; but she came forward, nevertheless, and, keeping well away from him, passed on toward the cottage. He stood looking after her, still laughing, and the sound of his laughter followed her into the house. She took off her stiff white cap and flung it on Woody's bed, and chucked her coat after it, and, unpinning her apron as she went, made her way wearily upstairs.

The window would not open. She struggled with it, standing in her pajamas on the bed, and finally gave it up.

Woods returned to the cottage an hour later. Without hesitation, she went to the kitchen mantel piece and took a shilling from under the clock there, put it in the meter, and made herself a cup of tea. After a quarter of an hour, she cleared away the things and, moving very quietly, left the house and walked across the park without a backward glance. The heavy, musty smell of escaping coal gas crept after her down the stairs and was barricaded in by the closing front door. Frederica tossed and muttered in her bed and fell back on her pillow and lay motionless.

The patients had been washed and tidied by the time that Esther came on to the ward; they lay dozing in their beds, trying to sleep away a few more minutes of their interminable day. She whisked up and down among them, taking temperatures, counting pulses, measuring out doses, examining dressings.

The oldest patient in every ward is known as Pop; anybody tall is invariably addressed as Lofty; anybody short as Tich, and anybody bald as Curly; for the rest, the patients are called by their surnames, or in the case of sergeants, by their rank; but there is no accounting for the vagaries of the British soldier, and the fractured tib. and fib. was known, for no apparent reason, as William. He was popular in the ward; there was a certain amount of competition among the V. A. D.s to attend to him. As a sophisticated, well-to-do and extremely personable young man, he was vastly interesting to Chalk and Cheese. Esther effectively concealed, even from herself, that she shared in this rivalry, but she could not prevent a small sensation of pleasure at observing her assistants so very busily occupied elsewhere. She advanced with a bottle of methylated spirit in her hand, and, lifting him on one arm, slid away the air cushion, and began to rub his back.

"That's quite comfortable now," said William.

"Thank you so much," he said; and as she stood by the bed, he took one of her hands in his. "Look at your poor little fingers!"

Mrs. Hasel D., Iowa City, Ia.—I had some window shades which were pretty old and had lost their sparkle. I coated them with cold water paint [white] and they are almost as good looking as when new.

Mrs. Ed Jones, Chicago—I found some of my books mildewed this spring. I scattered an absorbent—French chalk—between the pages. After a few days I brushed off chalk and mildew was gone.

Mrs. Tom S., Terre Haute, Ind.—Have been keeping house only a few months, but I took a tip from my grandmother and have speeded up my dish wiping by using two towels, one in each hand. Some of my friends don't agree, but this is a help to me!

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

The declarer in today's deal placed his faith in a finesse instead of an absolutely sure thing, and therefore deserved no great sympathy when the contract was lost.

West, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | Pass | Pass | 3 spades |
| Pass | 3 spades | Pass | 4 spades |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

West opened the heart king and when the deuce was played by East and the jack by declarer, quickly shifted to the diamond five. Declarer captured East's jack, drew two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and then hopefully finessed to his own diamond ten. West won, and after that there was no way by which declarer could avoid the loss of another heart trick and a club. Down one.

This was not a good play on declarer's part—to be as kind as possible! At the third trick [after capturing East's diamond jack], what could be wrong with making West take his heart ace, then and there? His best return would be a club. Declarer would win, cash the queen of trumps, enter dummy with the trump king, and then lead and pass the nine of hearts, discarding his club loser on that card. West would win with the ten, but now the heart eight would be set up in dummy, providing an absolutely safe trick upon which to discard South's ten of diamonds.

Baptist Parley Reverses Stand on Aid to War

Atlantic City, N. J., May 26 (AP).—The Northern Baptist convention today adopted an amendment and a resolution restoring the denomination's traditional pacifist stand, temporarily reversed yesterday when a resolution offered from the floor in support of the war was carried.

The final session amended yesterday's resolution, deleting, among other things, a sentence containing the words "God has a stake in this war." It also passed a motion proposed by the committee on resolutions reiterating previous "emphatic pronouncements against war" and leaving church members "free to follow the dictates of conscience in respect to our individual attitude and support of the war effort."

Yesterday's resolution committing the church to the support of the war was introduced directly on the floor in a surprise motion by the Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling of Philadelphia, president of the International Christian Endeavor, who left to go abroad after its adoption.

Among the resolutions were those designating D-day as a day of prayer; condemning the black market; favoring the return of loyal Japanese-Americans to their homes; proposing compulsory war time arbitration of strikes and lockouts; insisting that no citizen "shall be deprived of the right to vote because of his color, creed, or financial or social position," and petitioning President Roosevelt to relax the blockade of Europe.

The convention elected an unopposed single list of nominees for church and organization offices, including Mrs. Leslie E. Swain of Providence, R. I., the second woman president of the convention's history, and the Rev. G. A. Hagstrom of St. Paul, reëlected as president of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society, which the fundamentalist faction had strongly criticized.

Conkling to Dedicate St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Evanston

St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, will be dedicated by the Rt. Rev. William E. Conkling, diocesan, at an 11 a. m. service tomorrow as a memorial to the late Bishop George Craig Stewart. The Rt. Rev. Wallace J. Gardner, bishop of New Jersey, will preach and the Rev. Frederick L. Barry, rector, will be the celebrant.

The consecration service marks liquidation of a $94,500 indebtedness in three years. The church completed has cost three-quarters of a million dollars, but at the beginning of this year $66,000 yet remained due. This amount was cleared up by a Consecration fund raising committee headed by James Hughes, and the Women's division by Mrs. Frank Parker Davis.

The architecture of St. Luke's is 14th century English Gothic of the Cistercian abbey style. The high altar, a memorial to the first rector, the Rev. Daniel Freeman Smith, is a monolith weighing ten tons. On the arch over the entrance to the Sanctuary of the Lady Chapel is a stone rood-screen, one of the very few constructed in the Angelican church since the Reformation.

De La Salle Graduates Addressed by Sheriff

More failures in life result from an inability to make adjustments than from a lack of education, Sheriff Mulcahy last night told the graduating class of De La Salle High school in a commencement address.

"I shall not wave the flag to you who may be called upon to give more for that flag than any oratorical patriot can appreciate," Mr. Mulcahy told the graduates, many of whom soon will enter the services. "You will live in close proximity to other men, and you will get along in proportion to your ability to understand them and be sympathetic with them."

Survey of Problems in Teaching English Is Started at Parley

A survey of problems of teaching English with a view to the development of a nation-wide, long time curriculum for English instruction in American schools was begun yesterday at the opening of a three day session of the National Council of Teachers of English in the Morrison hotel.

Ten members will examine suggestions, problems, and questions sent in from English teachers all over the country, Dr. Angela M. Broening, Baltimore, Md., president of the council, said. Typical subjects to be considered will be means of improving the quality of reading on all levels, the place of English instruction in relationship to good citizenship, and practices in training in the basic skills—spelling, writing, reading, and listening.

In general, the public reads better these days, the English teachers said, but the reading demands have increased so greatly the teachers feel techniques should be improved wherever possible.

PICKLE HEIR SAYS HE SPANKED WIFE FOR KICKING SON

Heinz Says Boy Acquired Vulgar Speech.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 26 [Special].—Clifford Heinz II., heir to the 57 varieties pickle fortune, who is in a court battle for the custody of his 4 year old son, Clifford Heinz III., told Superior Judge Charles E. Haas today he administered a spanking of the old-fashioned variety on the boy's mother after she had kicked the boy in the face.

Heinz, 24, has charged the mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bald Heinz, 25, is not a fit person to take care of the child. Mrs. Heinz contends Heinz took the child from their Forest Hills, N. Y., home last February without her consent and brought him to Beverly Hills. The Heinzes separated last Jan. 24.

Turned Her Over Knee.

Atty. Maurice Rose, representing Mrs. Heinz, was questioning the pickle fortune heir when he suddenly asked: "Did you physically assault your wife?"

"What year?" Heinz shot back.

When dates and places were set, Heinz said: "I turned her over on my knee and spanked her."

The explained that the spanking was given "because she kicked little Cliff above the left eye."

Learned Naughty Words.

Heinz charged that little Clifford's language was developed beyond his his years in certain directions when he brought his son to live with Mrs. Sara Young MacLean, Heinz's mother, at Beverly Hills. He asserted the boy's vocabularly, replete with "oaths and vulgar expressions," demonstrated the mother's unfitness to have his custody.

Since the boy's removal from his mother's presence, Heinz said, he no longer says "naughty words."

The name of a mysterious "Mrs. Howard," introduced in yesterday's testimony when Heinz admitted he knew a "Mr. and Mrs. Howard," popped up again today under cross-examination by Atty. Rose.

Denies He Sought Divorce.

"Did you come here, to Los Angeles, in the summer of 1942, to attend your sister Dorothy's wedding?" Rose asked. Heinz said he did.

"Did you then meet Mrs. Howard? Did you take back to your home in Hartford photograhs of yourself and Mrs. Howard? Does one photograph show Mrs. Howard leaning her elbow on your knee? Does another photograph show Mrs. Howard in a bathing suit?"

Heinz answered "yes" to all questions. But when Rose asked him if he had told his wife he wanted a divorce so he could marry "Mrs. Howard," he denied it.

The court recessed as Rose was attempting to obtain a statement from Heinz identifying "Mrs. Howard." The woman was identified yesterday as Mrs. Virginia Spreckels. Howard, wife of the wealthy automobile dealer, whose father is the owner of the race horse "Seabiscuit."

Divorce Suits

Diagrams indicate increase in divorce suits filed in Cook county Circuit and Superior courts this year, as compared with those filed in first 4 months last year.

CAPT. DOLLARD SEEKS DIVORCE AFTER 30 YEARS

Capt. Henry L. Dollard of the medical corps of the navy asserted in a suit for divorce filed in Lake county Circuit court in Waukegan yesterday that his life has been made "miserable and unhappy" for the last 25 years by the cruel treatment of his wife, Lida May Dollard. His suit charged that she had kicked, beaten, and scratched him. He charged further that she sought to make him an object of contempt before other naval officers and friends.

Capt. Dollard, who formerly was in charge of hospitals of the 9th naval district, now is a patient in a naval hospital in the east. Mrs. Dollard lives at 295 E. Vine st., Lake Forest. They separated last March, the bill said.

Capt. Dollard is 63 and approaching retirement. He and Mrs. Dollard were married in October, 1913, and he has been a physician and officer of the navy for more than 30 years. They have two sons in the navy, Lt. John Taft Dollard, 26, and Henry Lewis Dollard Jr., 24.

SEES ALL-TIME HIGH IN DIVORCES AFTER THE WAR

Divorces in the United States will reach an unprecedented high when the war is over and soldiers and sailors return to their homes, it was predicted yesterday by Judge John C. Lewe of the Superior court. Judge Lewe said his statement was based on divorce surveys in America and England after World War I, and on studies which he has made in Chicago and Cook county.

In Cook county, Judge Lewe reported, divorce litigation already exceeds all other civil suits combined and still an appalling backlog of potential divorce cases is accumulating to await the demobilization of the army and navy.

Tells Reasons for Delay.

Many of these cases are dormant because of generous allowances given wives of service men by the government, he said, and still others are at a standstill because of difficulties encountered in obtaining services of legal process. A smaller group is being delayed because the wives have been influenced by patriotic motives to put off action until peace comes.

Judge Lewe said that economic independence of women is one of the greatest causes of divorces, and he predicted that many women now employed will be loathe to give up lucrative jobs to return to household tasks after the war. Some employers, particularly those who have found that women are from 20 to 40 per cent more efficient than men, will try to hold their women employes, the judge said.

He pointed to children and self-owned homes as the greatest single factors in making marriage contracts of life long duration. Families with at least three children and owning their single unit homes are far less apt to be found in divorce courts than are childless couples living in apartments he said.

Two-thirds Are Childless.

Seventy-five per cent of all decrees granted in Cook county involve couples married less than five years, Judge Lewe said, and of that number, more than two-thirds have no children. The percentage of those who own homes is almost nil, he declared.

The Circuit court clerk's figures reveal that 2,023 divorce suits were filed in the first four months of 1944 as compared with 1,322 in that same period last year. In the Superior court, 3,620 suits were filed from January thru April of this year while there were 3,211 in that period in 1943.

INTERRACIAL PARLEY SET.

The Illinois interracial commission will hold a conference in Springfield on June 9 with state officials and representatives of groups fighting racial intolerance. Gov. Green is slated to speak.

'MAN'S FRIEND' PUTS HUSBANDS INTO DOGHOUSE

Countess Gets Divorce from Curie Kin.

(Picture on back page.)

Man's best friend, the dog, was responsible yesterday for the appearances of two husbands in court actions brought by their wives.

Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court heard the divorce suit of Countess Elaine Curie d'Arlier against Count George d'Arlier, involving a little dog named Bubu.

Countess d'Arlier, 43, who claims a relationship with Pierre Curie, co-discoverer of radium, said she and the count left their hotel at 2757 Pine Grove av. on Feb. 15 to walk Bubu and met a man who was walking his dog, and complaining about it.

Countess Defends Bubu.

"I have a bad dog," he told the d'Arliers. "He's a lot of trouble, and he's always clawing and chewing the upholstered furniture. He is terrible."

"Our dog, also, is terrible," Count d'Arlier said agreeably. "He, too, chews and claws the furniture."

"He certainly does not," said the countess. "Bubu is well behaved."

Countess d'Arlier, represented by Joseph H. and Norman Becker, attorneys, told Judge Dunne that her husband later accused her of trying to make a fool out of him and slapped her. It was not, she said, the first time. Judge Dunne granted the countess, a costume jewelry dealer, a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court heard the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Bessie Pirron, 29, of 1655 N. Washtenaw av., against her husband, Edward, a cartage company employe, in which a Boston bull terrier named Toy figured.

Husband Asks Annulment.

Mrs. Pirron, represented by Atty. Norman Becker, charged that Pirron left their home May 1, taking with him among other things her favorite toothbrush and Toy. She asked Judge Sbarbaro to compel her husband to return them.

David P. Krasner, Pirron's attorney, was given permission to file a counter-suit for annulment, contending that his client and Mrs. Pirron were not legally married. A year after he married Mrs. Pirron, Pirron learned that a previous wife had not divorced him as he had thought, Krasner said. Wife No. 1 later obtained a divorce, but the Pirrons never were remarried. Judge Sbarbaro continued the case to June 5.

FIREMEN REVIVE TAILOR.

Sam Mishkin, 55, a tailor, was revived by fire department rescue squad No. 8, under Lt. Thomas J. Donoghue, yesterday 45 minutes after he suffered a heart attack in his home, 4411 Lexington av.

EX-COUNT SUES BARBARA HUTTON OVER SON'S CARE

Los Angeles, Cal., May 26 (AP).—Barbara Hutton Grant, dime store heiress wife of Movie Actor Cary Grant, was directed today to appear in Superior court June 12 to show cause why she should not be restrained from using "coarse or vulgar language" before her son, Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow, 9.

Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson issued the order after the filing of a suit earlier today by her former husband, Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, for control of the boy's upbringing. The suit alleges that she has used such language in the lad's presence since last June 15.

The order also directs her to show cause why she should not be restrained from using in his presence language which, the suit charged, was calculated to undermine his love and affection for his father.

The suit seeks an order requiring Mrs. Grant to hire a governess chosen by her former husband. It requests enforcement of a March 3, 1939, order by England's high court of justice giving him, Haugwitz-Reventlow says, guidance of the boy's education, religious schooling, and upbringing.

Copies of Letters.

Attached to the complaint were photostatic copies of letters allegedly exchanged between Lance and his mother. One of them, dated last Feb. 12, is alleged to read: "The h—— to my father. I would like it if he died."

Lance resides presently with Haugwitz-Reventlow and his wife, the former Margaret Astor Drayton, in Pasadena. The father renounced his Danish title of count in 1943 to become an American citizen. He and the former Miss Hutton were married in Reno, Nev., May 14, 1935.

MICHIGAN TO DEFEND BIG TEN TRACK TITLE TODAY

ILLINOIS, LED BY BUDDY YOUNG, IS TOP CONTENDER

Freshman Star Will Enter 4 Events.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., May 26.—Michigan's defending track team will enter the Big Ten conference meet tomorrow in Memorial stadium with confidence that the title will remain in Wolverine possession. However, the challenging Illini, who last won the championship 10 years ago, possibly may prove to be the eventual winners.

Purdue unanimously is given third place in the final distribution of points with Northwestern fourth. The Boilermakers' score may be larger than predicted earlier and, in some measure, the duel between Illinois and Michigan will be decided by Purdue's accomplishments.

Illini Rely on Young.

Illinois will depend on Buddy Young to garner many of its points. This spectacular freshman, who already has tied the indoor world record for 60 yards and run within one tenth of a second of the outdoor 100 yard dash record, will compete in four events. Buddy scarcely can be beaten in the two sprints. He has not lost one of these races this spring and three weeks ago he covered the furlong in less than 21 seconds.

Young also will compete in the broad jump, in which he won the indoor conference title, and in the 220 yard low hurdles. His domination in the broad jump will be contested by Elroy Hirsch of Michigan, who defeated him in a triangular meet in Ann Arbor two weeks ago. Hirsch plans to pitch for the Wolverine baseball team in the second game of a double header tomorrow afternoon in loomington, Ind., but will compete in the broad jump preliminaries here in the morning. Distances made in the preliminaries count for the finals also.

Hinkle Ready for Relay.

Apparently, Young will win the jump. His latest venture is the low hurdle contest. Here, because of lack of practice, he must depend on speed rather than form. Actually, his entry in the event is occasioned by recovery from a leg injury by Bob Hinkle, Illinois quarter miler. Until it was believed Hinkle could run in the mile relay, Young was slated to compete in this climactic event of the conference games.

Hinkle led off for the Illini in their mile relay victory at Drake. He has not competed since and Illinois' best time of the year was recorded when Young ran the third leg of the mile relay at Michigan. Michigan no longer is top flight in the event because of the loss of Bob Ufer who pulled a muscle last week in the meet at Purdue, but the Boilermakers can force the pace against Illini in the relay and may defeat them.

Hume Twins Sure to Win.

Ufer would have scored in the quarter mile and half mile, if he had been in condition. Michigan also has lost Elmer Swanson, a hurdler, who like Hirsch has cast his lot with the Wolverine baseball team. Regardless, Michigan will pile up points in the field events and in the distance runs. Capt. Bob Hume and his twin, Ross, are unbeatable in the mile and two miles. Here are 16 points on which the Wolverines will build for the team championship.

Jack Exler is Purdue's best track man and since he has switched to the half mile, he may force Illinois' Bob Kelley to his maximum effort. Exler also will run in the two miles. Bill Beile, former Illinois student, will compete for Purdue in the quarter mile.

Kelley Holds Two Titles.

Bob Kelley, captain of the Illini, is expected to retain his two individual titles in the half mile and quarter mile. Kelley also will anchor the Illinois relay team. Marce Gonzalez, Dick Young, and Hinkle are the other runners. The first two men undoubtedly will compete in the 440 yard dash.

Trials tomorrow will be held in nine events starting at 10 a. m. The first championship race is scheduled at 3 o'clock.

BIG 10 COACHES SELECT RIVALS IN BASKETBALL

Maj. Griffith Will Draw Schedule.

Western conference basketball coaches, after two days of futile fraternal strife, yesterday decided upon a 12 game schedule for 1945. The coaches each selected six opponents for competition, but did not assign dates.

The schedule now must be detailed by Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the conference. The bitter debates for 48 hours bore fruit, however, in Illinois' refusal to play Purdue and Wisconsin next winter. Both universities long have been natural rivals for the Illini. Michigan also declined to meet Purdue.

They Criticize Purdue.

The plethora of arguments on type of basketball play, which apparently centered on Purdue and possibly Wisconsin, pointed to the choice of opponents. Ohio State, which also censured Purdue, accepted the Boilermakers for 1945 to complete the 12 game program.

The choices of opponents by the basketball coaches follow:

ILLINOIS—Michigan, Iowa, Northwestern, Indiana, Ohio State, and Minnesota.
INDIANA—Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Purdue, Ohio State, and Iowa.
IOWA—Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Purdue, and Michigan.
MICHIGAN—Illinois, Ohio State, Northwestern, Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin.
MINNESOTA—Wisconsin, Illinois, Northwestern, Indiana, Iowa, and Purdue.
NORTHWESTERN—Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio State, Minnesota, and Purdue.
OHIO STATE—Michigan, Northwestern, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Purdue.
PURDUE—Minnesota, Ohio State, Iowa, Indiana, Northwestern, and Wisconsin.
WISCONSIN—Minnesota, Iowa, Purdue, Ohio State, Northwestern, and Michigan.

The faculty committee, governing body of the conference, extended permission for football teams to play nine intercollegiate games and to schedule a 10th game if the opponent is a service school. This action had been anticipated. The professors, however, did not rule on civilian eligibility.

No Action on Civilian Cases.

Prof. Frank E. Richart of Illinois, secretary of the committee, explained that the cases of the few civilians possibly involved should be handled by each university. Thus, Bob Westfall, Michigan full back, who did not graduate after three years of varsity play, still is eligible to compete with the Wolverines this fall if he returns to the university and is approved by the Michigan athletic board.

The football coaches completed the conference football schedule for 1946. The schedule follows:

Sept. 28—Notre Dame at Illinois; Indiana at Michigan; Nebraska at Minnesota.
Oct. 5—Iowa at Ohio State; Wisconsin at Northwestern; Purdue at Illinois; Indiana at Minnesota.
Oct. 12—Purdue at Iowa; Minnesota at Northwestern; Ohio State at Wisconsin; Illinois at Indiana.
Oct. 19—Wisconsin at Illinois; Iowa at Indiana; Northwestern at Michigan; Purdue at Ohio State.
Oct. 26—Illinois at Michigan; Notre Dame at Iowa; Minnesota at Ohio State.
Nov. 2—Michigan at Minnesota; Ohio State at Northwestern; Wisconsin at Purdue; Illinois at Iowa; Pittsburgh at Indiana.
Nov. 9—Indiana at Northwestern; Purdue at Minnesota; Pittsburgh at Ohio State; Iowa at Wisconsin.
Nov. 16—Ohio State at Illinois; Iowa at Minnesota; Wisconsin at Michigan; Northwestern at Notre Dame.
Nov. 23—Illinois at Northwestern; Indiana at Purdue; Nebraska at Iowa; Michigan at Ohio State; Minnesota at Wisconsin.

BIG 10 GOLFERS MEET TODAY AT MEDINAH CLUB

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Michigan's Wolverines, ever championship-minded, today will attempt to pick up another pair of titles when they tee off against seven other Big Ten schools in the 23d annual Western conference golf tournament at the Medinah Country club. Thirty-seven players will battle thru 36 holes of medal play for the team title now led by Michigan and the individual crown vacated by Ben Smith of Michigan and Jim Teale of Minnesota, who tied for that honor last year, but are now in service.

Leading challengers for the team championship which has been won seven times, the last two in succession, by the Wolverines, are Ohio State, Purdue, and Minnesota. The Buckeyes are the only team to have won a dual meet from the defending champions this spring, altho the latter paid them off, 16 to 2, in a second battle. Purdue bases its hopes on Jack Culp, formerly of Chicago's Ridge Country club, who now is stationed as a marine trainee on the Boilermaker campus. Minnesota's leaders are Capt. Louis Lick Jr., who finished well up in the individual standings last year, and Jim Harris.

Wildcats Lose Stars.

The other schools represented in today's competition are Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, and Northwestern. The Wildcats finished as runners-up in a dramatic team rally at Westmoreland in 1943, but Coach Ted Payseur's squad has been reduced considerably by service transfers. The main Purple swinger is Warren Williamson, who will be supported by Bob Alexander, Milt Kuehn, Jim Kuehn, Jim Stotter, and Ed Malenius.

Last year's tournament at Westmoreland was held on the regular 72 hole basis, with Michigan taking the team race off of a total of 1,289 to Northwestern's 1,292. Other schools followed in this order: Ohio State, 1,294; Minnesota, 1,302; Illinois, 1,311; Wisconsin, 1,334, and Chicago, 1,447.

Winners Share Title.

The tie between Smith and Teale, registered at 311 in chilly rains, was the first in the history of the tournament, and the coaches decided to permit it to stand, giving each boy a medal.

The team championship will be determined on the basis of the low foursome aggregate from any school.

*John Marsch entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Eleven fleet youngsters headed by the John Marsch entry of Errard and Alfa, both unbeaten and favored at 6 to 5, have been named in the overnight entries for the $5,000 added Joliet stakes today, a five furling race for 2 year olds.

The 17th running of the event will feature the program, the 11th of Lincoln Fields' 29 day spring meeting at Hawthorne Park. Fifty-nine thorobreds originally were nominated for the race, the first important juvenile stake event in the Chicago district.

Chief contention for the Marsch entry is expected from Thomas Platt's Limestone and C. C. Tanner's Best Effort, which scored a handy victory in the Bashford Manor stakes at Churchill Downs this spring. Limestone won his only start at Hawthorne last week.

Bring Jockey from Detroit.

Best Effort, son of Ladysman-Gorgeous Lady, will be ridden by Kempton Knott, brought in from Detroit for the race. Limestone, by Chance Sun-Grey Watch, will have Al Bodiou in the saddle, and Otto Grohs, contract rider for the Marsch stable, will have the leg up on Errard, sleek bay son of Challenger II.-Ruddy Light. George Seabo will ride Alfa, a bay gelding by Ariel-Alfaye B.

The Joliet stakes, sixth race on the card, will be preceded by a $1,800 allowance race for 3 year olds in which Marsch's Jezrahel, a brilliant performer last year, has drawn top weight of 124 pounds in a field of seven which includes Mrs. H. J. Damm's Zacapet, winner of $10,340 as a 2 year old.

Betting, Attendance Heavy.

Heavy wagering again marked yesterday's program as a crowd of 10,968 kept up the daily average with a play of $643,910 on an ordinary card of eight races, the best of which was the sixth, a six furlong event for older horses. The event went to Bob's Dream, owned by the Hilltop stock farm and ridden by Grohs. Three Dots was second, just a neck in back and a head in front of Clarksville. The winner paid $5.60.

Pidgy, a good performer at the Sportsman's Park meeting, took the first event and refunded $9 for a $2 ticket and the daily double investors who hooked Pidgy up with Bellcoda in the second race were rewarded with a $122.40 pay-off. Bellcoda paid $18.60.

Fort Sheridan Gets 4 in First, but Loses, 5-4

Fort Sheridan picked up four runs in the first inning, but was held scoreless the remainder of the game by Bill Evans, ex-Chattanooga pitcher, who hurled Camp McCoy to a 5 to 4 victory at the fort yesterday.

CUBS CONTINUE ROMP WITH 9-1 ROUT OF PHILS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 25. — The Cubs, who are so gay they have forgotten the discomforts of their basement occupancy, went about their business in a big way again today and now are the proud possessors of six consecutive decisions. It was done with a flock of timely base hits and the right arm of Paul Derringer, the Phillies folding up under the treatment by a count of 9 to 1.

Charley Grimm's boys were doubly pleased with their work because they finally gave the heave ho to Al Gerheauser, the lefty who had beaten them four straight times since he came into the league a year ago. They put a big dent in the southpaw's string by exploding enough hits in the second inning to fashion a four run lead for big Paul. This didn't satisfy Gerheauser, so he came back in the third but quickly was convinced by a two run splurge. After this the Chicagoans made mild scoring attacks on two other guys.

Paul Proves Courage.

Derringer's work didn't begin to sparkle until after he had gotten into so much trouble that he stirred up a tempest in the Cubs' bull pen. The first two Phils to face him hit a single and double, respectively, and, by the time he ended the inning successfully with the aid of a fielding gem by Bill Schuster, he had the bases filled. He had 'em loaded again in the second with only one out and again subdued his assailants.

Some of the Cubs did very well with their bats and some did nothing at all. Phil Cavarretta, Roy Hughes and Don Johnson each picked off three safeties. Derringer also got in on the hilarity with two singles, one of which drove in two runs and Schuster cut in with a pair. Among the three who did nothing was Bill [Cleanup] Nicholson. He strolled to the plate five times, but his only reward was a base on balls that didn't figure in the run production.

The Fun Starts Early.

The Cubs began having fun in the second inning as soon as Nicholson

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Yankees, shut out by Orval Grove, 4 to 0, on May 17 on five hits, returned the favor before 25,766 in Comiskey Park last night, by shutting out Grove and fellow White Sox, 4 to 0. Ernie Bonham spoiled the tit-for-tat ratio by yielding six hits instead of five.

The Sox's failure gave them their second five game losing streak of the year and brought their season's loss total to 18, the same number their French Lick buddies, the Cubs, have suffered under more spectacular circumstances.

However, the Sox, who got out of the cellar by loafing Wednesday and Thursday, stayed out of the pit as the Cleveland Indians continued to lose. The Yankees have won four straight.

Sox Keep Popping Up.

Bonham, knocked out by the Sox in New York on May 18, had them popping up all evening. The Yankees did not make an assist until the eighth and only two in the entire game. The Sox got only one runner to third, Leroy Schalk advancing that far on his own hit and a pop single by Johnny Dickshot in the eighth. Otherwise the Sox got only one runner as far as second. Eddie Carnett singled in the fifth—the first Sox hit—and, after Tony Cuccinello and Skeeter Webb had been retired, reached second on Mike Tresh's single.

Wally Moses, Hal Trosky, Webb, and Grove had trouble with Bonham's stuff to the extent none came close to getting on base inasmuch as Bonham walked no one and Schalk was the beneficiary of the New Yorkers' lone error.

Sox Present Foes 2 Runs.

Grove, in trying for his fourth success, absorbed his fourth defeat. The first two New York runs in a rather hysterical fifth inning were unearned and involved an error on a double play ball by Schalk, an "obstruction play," otherwise known as an interference play by Schal, and a wild pitch, which enabled the first run to score. During the course of the inning there were two passed balls by Mike Tresh, but they didn't bloom into anything worse than the razz the crowd gave Mike.

Even if the fifth had been played cleanly, the Yankees would have made the essential run in the eighth. Bonham, who previously had knocked two singles, walked on four pitches, the only walk of the game. A sacrifice by George Stirnweiss and a double by Ed Levy, first Yankee extra baser against the Sox in three games, scored Bonham. Against Maltzberger in the ninth the Yanks scored on a safe bunt by Don Savage, Johnny Lindell's sacrifice, and a single by Rollie Hemsley.

Fifth Inning Details.

Here's the detail of the manner in which the Sox momentarily fell apart in the fifth: With one down, Hemsley singled to center. Mike Milosevich sent a double play ball straight at Webb and Skeeter came up with it perfectly and make a quick, accurate throw to Schalk, who fumbled. As the ball rolled into right field, Schalk, in the judgment of the umpires, tried to block Hemsley at second. Hemsley was waved to third for the obstruction and Milosevich, who was not entitled to an automatic advance, dashed to second while the Sox were wasting time making a play on the immune Hemsley as Rollie walked to third. Webb was given an assist and Schalk an error on the play.

The Sox were up in the air as a result of the happening and Grove immediately cast a wild pitch, Hemsley scoring and Milosevich reaching third. Bonham knocked his second single, scoring Milosevich. Bonham got to third on two passed balls by Tresh. Stirnweiss struck out the second time and Metheny flied to Dickshot.

New York, May 25 (AP).—Bucky Walters won his seventh game of the season for the Cincinnati Reds tonight as he held the Giants to five hits for a 4 to 3 victory in 10 innings. ## PREDICTS BANK DEPOSIT TOTAL OF 150 BILLIONS

Peak Is Expected at War's End.

Bank deposits are likely to reach the unprecedented total of 125 to 150 billion dollars by the end of the war, Dr. E. A. Goldenweiser, research director, federal reserve system, told more than 1,000 members of the Illinois Bankers association at their 54th annual convention in the Palmer House yesterday.

Floyd M. Condit, who was elected president of banking group.

He predicted a continued increase in deposits because the government has obtained 60 billion dollars of total war expenditures of 210 billions thru sales of federal securities to banks and probably will continue to lean heavily on banks for funds.

Represents Inflation Threat.

This accumulation of deposits can either become a dangerous inflationary force or a safeguard against depression, depending on the skill with which the funds are directed into productive channels, the economist said.

"There is no reason to expect deposits to decrease after the war," Goldenweiser said. "With most of the increase in bank assets being in government securities there will not be the same pressure for liquidation of assets with a consequent decline in deposits as occurred in 1920, when bank loans were supporting the unsustainable commodity price structure."

Nor is it likely government bond prices will decline after the war, he said, and added that the position of the banks in this respect is enhanced by the fact most of their federal securities are short term issues.

Aggressive Program Urged.

Goldenweiser said the bankers' greatest challenge is to find profitable outlets for their funds. He said that loans to individuals and businesses have been declining for some time, and warned bankers they must seek new business aggressively.

He suggested small loans to individuals, consumer credit, and installment sales financing, and real estate and construction loans as avenues for the flow of bank funds.

Earl C. Smith, president, Illinois Agricultural association, called for "a prosperous and stabilized agriculture as the first essential of a stabilized and prosperous economy." He said the agricultural adjustment act should be continued in force to stabilize farm prices after the war, but demanded correction of government "abuses" in farm administration.

Food Policy Termed Shortsighted.

Smith termed the demoralization of hog markets an example of government mishandling of farm problems and said the corn shortage resulted from the government's "shortsighted war time food policy."

Better understanding between all elements in national economy will be necessary to avoid a post-war depression and shorten the movements of the economic pendulum which in this generation "has swung from sweat shop abuses by big business to a flagrant misuse of power by certain labor leaders," he said.

Floyd M. Condit, president, First National bank, Beardstown, was elected president to succeed George R. Boyles, president, Merchants National Bank in Chicago. Condit has been vice president and a member of the council of administration.

Municipal Security Offerings to Be Lighter

New York, May 26 (AP).—Municipal issues scheduled for sale next week total $52,943,174, compared with $93,788,128 last week, the Daily Bond Buyer reported today.

Park & Tilford Stockholders to Get Whisky

New York, May 26 (AP).—Directors of Park & Tilford, Inc., today disclosed details of the company's long expected offering of whisky under which common stockholders may buy six cases of "Reserve" blended whisky for each full share held—beginning July 1 and ending May 15, 1946.

A case of 12 bottles containing four-fifths quart each will sell for $29.87 — including federal excise taxes, but before state and local charges—if made with Cuban cane spirits, and $26.43 when domestic grain neutral spirits are used. Cuban spirits, on which there is a duty of $2 a gallon, will be used for the present.

July Quota 100,000 Cases.

An aggregate of 1,551,678 cases will be made available for purchase with the allotment of 100,000 cases during July, the same amount in August, and then at the rate of not less than 50,000 cases a month up to May 15, 1946.

Under the allotment system, the company said stockholders may apply each month for 25 per cent or less of the maximum number of cases they were entitled to.

Shares of Park & Tilford on the stock exchange rose to a high of 98¼ for the year in early dealings today, but after directors made their announcement, the stock reacted because of heavy profit taking and closed at 93¼, down 1¼ from Thursday. The 1944 low for the stock was 57¾ last Jan. 18.

Mail Purchase Warrants.

The company said whisky purchase warrants would be mailed to stockholders on or about June 30 and that the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company had been appointed transfer agent. Shipments will be made on or about Aug. 1 for allotments made in July.

The offer applies to registered holders of common stock as of next June 23.

VINSON PASSES WAGE PACT FOR HARD COAL PITS

Washington, D. C., May 26 (AP).—Stabilization Director Vinson today approved the anthracite wage contract and consequent price adjustments which will cost the consumer an average of more than 13 cents a ton.

Prices will go down on June 1, but less than previously ordered. Anthracite producers had been allowed a temporary advance to take care of retroactive wage payments. This ceiling was to be cut back 28 cents, but Vinson's authorization trimmed the slated reduction an average of 13.3 cents a ton, leaving a net cut of about 14 cents.

Vinson's approval, after that of the war labor board, put the contract between the operators and the United Mine Workers into operation and permits termination of government operation of the mines.

ALCOHOL OUTPUT ORDER PUSHES RYE PRICES UP

Announcement by the war food administration that distillers would be required to use 1 million bushels of rye in production of industrial alcohol starting June 1 caused a 3 cents a bushel rally in rye futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Scattered liquidation caused an early break, but when it was announced commercial demand for cash rye would be larger prices turned upward on aggressive buying by shorts and large professional traders. Altho the top prices were not maintained, the close was 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents higher.

Favorable weather and crop reports depressed wheat which closed unchanged to ¾ cent lower, July leading. Oats finished ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower. Barley was ⅛ to ¼ cent higher.

Milwaukee Road Earnings Tumble on Higher Costs

Milwaukee railroad's net income in April dipped to $866,912 from $3,465,798 a year earlier despite gross income of $17,052,927 almost equal to the $17,703,182 of a year ago, company officials reported yesterday. The decline reflected increased federal taxes, wage rates, and prices of materials used in operations, officials said.

STOCKS HIGHER; LIQUORS HOLD EYES OF TRADE

Pivotals Reach New 1944 Peaks.

New York, May 26 (AP).—Liquors monopolized the ticker tape in today's stock market altho other specialties were relatively strong and a number of pivotals came to life and established peaks for 1944.

The distillers were active, following voting of the expected whisky distribution to shareholders by Park & Tilford. There was a spread of about 8 points in this stock, Schenley, National Distillers, and Distillers corporation were up fractions.

Resumption of the selective recovery swing was attributed partly to prospective earnings, dividends and persistently good war news. Rails and steels were backward thruout and other accounts were trimmed for week-end protection.

Average Is Higher.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 at 52.8, a top since March. Transfers totaled 835,830 shares against 804,210.

In the "new high" class were American Telephone, up 1⅛ to 160½; Certain-teed, General Motors, Chrysler, White Motors, Willys-Overland, Allied Stores, American Sugar, Gamewell, American & Foreign Power preferreds, Thatcher Manufacturing, South Porto Rico Sugar, Goodyear, and International Harvester. Losers included Santa Fe, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Kennecott, Consolidated Edison, American Smelting, and North American Aviation.

On the curb, Standard Cap & Seal common and preferred advanced 3¾ and 3 points, respectively.

RAIL BONDS MIXED.

New York, May 26 (AP).—Gains and losses were divided in the rail section of the bond market today, and the remainder of the list got little attention other than investment interest in high priced corporates and mild buying among South Americans.

Continued light profit cashing and some week-end liquidation helped keep the rail carrier loans under pressure most of the day, but the improved financial position of most roads encouraged buyers.

Monon 4s, 5s, and 6s of '47 stood out with climbs of 2, 1⅞, and 3, respectively.

TOUCH NEW PEAKS.

Altho declines slightly outnumbered advances in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange, some issues sold at new tops for 1944. Among them were International Harvester, Deere & Co., and Goodyear Tire. Borg-Warner rose ¾. Middle West and Nash-Kelvinator were active at slight gains.

INCREASED 1943 SALES REPORTED BY UNITED GAS

In contrast to the general shortage of fuels, United Gas corporation system, large producer of natural gas, has continued to meet the fuel requirements of government establishments and of the many war production plants in its gulf state territory along with its other customers, the corporation said in its annual report to stockholders yesterday.

The volume of natural gas sold by the system in 1943 was 331 billion cubic feet, compared with 295 billion in 1942, an increase of 12 per cent. The company's consolidated profit in 1943 was $7,604,602, compared with $7,890,833 in 1942. Total operating revenues amounted to $56,696,439, against $56,043,450.

300,000 New Homes a Year Termed Limit

BY AL CHASE.

In the face of recent predictions by organizations and firms thruout the country that home building may reach an annual post-war volume of one to two million units, the National Association of Real Estate Boards yesterday announced that a widespread survey indicated only about 300,000 would be erected annually during the first post-war decade. The larger estimates may have been wishful thinking, the survey said.

The realty association, in its 42d semi-annual survey of the real estate market, asked local real estate boards to make a close check of the number of houses likely to be built annually in their communities after the war. Replies from 376 cities set the figure at 300,000.

Homes "Most Needed."

Altho the survey indicated a smaller number of houses may be built than generally expected, the real estate board reports, nevertheless, said homes were the "most needed" type of structures. Nearly three-fourths of the reporting cities listed home building as first need, while one-fourth said repairs and reconditioning of houses were most essential.

Twenty-five per cent of the cities reported that the post-war house most wanted will cost less than $3,000. Thirty per cent believe the after-war need will be the $3,000 to $4,000 home. Thirty-one per cent predict that the $4,500 to $6,000 unit will be most prevalent.

Higher Price Expected.

Fourteen per cent of the cities look forward to post-war residential building as predominately in the price range over $8,000.

Asked to estimate the possibility of reclaiming slum areas if public machinery can be devised, 48 per cent of the cities reported they have blighted areas ripe for large scale building.

LACK OF LABOR CUTS OUTPUT OF MEAT PACKERS

Twelve thousand farmer owned hogs were unsold at the Chicago stock yards yesterday and packers held several thousand which they may not be able to slaughter until the middle of next week. Operations of packing plants are expected to be curtailed because many workers plan several days' holiday.

Prospects for a Monday kill were varied in the city's plants. So few men have agreed to work in some that the managements decided not to start slaughter operations. Some packers were attempting to gather crews for a Sunday kill to offset the loss of Monday's operations. The owner of one plant said some of his crew were willing to work Monday, but three key men refused and operations will be at a standstill Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

All the hogs that sold brought steady prices. Cattle were slow and weak and lambs steady.

New York, May 26 (AP).—Rawson G. Lizars of Chicago, leader of a group of stockholders who gained control of Certain-teed Products corporation, today was elected chairman of the new board at its organization meeting.

Hector J. Dowd, president under the old regime, was elected a director and then reelected president.

The contest for control of Certain-teed started several months ago when a group of stockholders headed by Lizars objected to Bror Dahlberg, chairman of the board, holding a similar position as chairman of Celotex corporation, a competing company which had a working agreement with Certain-teed.

ZEPHYR'S 10TH YEAR MARKED BY BURLINGTON

Streamline Gamble Pays, Line Learns.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The 10th anniversary of the "dawn to dusk" run of the Burlington railroad's pioneer Zephyr on May 26, 1934, from Denver to the Century of Progress at Chicago was observed yesterday at a joint meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Executive club in the Hotel Sherman. Civic leaders viewed the event as a symbol marking release of the railroads from the shackles of tradition to start a new era in railroading.

Edward G. Budd.

H. L. Hamilton, vice president, General Motors corporation; Edward G. Budd, president, Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, and Ralph Budd, Burlington president, who were responsible for that chapter in the history of railroading, told how their gamble with untried methods had paid out in streamlined railroading.

Recalls Train Development.

Edward Budd recalled the events which led to the development of light weight modern stainless steel trains of which 45 are in use with 750 million car miles to their credit.

He likened the conventional steel car, which when it was introduced more than 40 years ago was a sensation, "to a broken old man who needs to be laid to rest." The new modern cars have been put thru tests which have proved them and after the war car builders will be busy for years replacing old equipment, he said.

Because of today's much faster speeds, cars must be built of materials able to withstand a severe impact, Budd said. He suggested that the fact car builders have been forced to halt their work by the war may be a good omen, because as a result of the breathing spell they may be able to produce new improvements when work is resumed.

Diesel Use Uncertain.

Hamilton, who developed the diesel-electric locomotive which made extended high speed operation possible, said that when the 600 horsepower locomotive which pulled the Pioneer Zephyr on its historic run was introduced no one knew how it would fit into railroading.

The first locomotives were handbuilt jobs which had to be put onto a production basis to keep costs down. Subsequent development was successful as indicated by activities at the huge plant of the Electro-Motive division of General Motors near La Grange. Hamilton brought the plant to Chicago in 1935, and a short time later had only 2,000 employes. Now about 9,500 are employed.

Ralph Budd said the railroads acted as a laboratory for proving new products of locomotive and car builders. He described the dawn to dusk run as one of the most significant feats of the railroad laboratory. What the railroads can do in the future to take advantage of new developments will depend on public policies, including regulation, he said.

USE PLYWOOD CARS

St. Paul, Minn., May 26 [Special].—The Great Northern railway today dispatched to the Pacific northwest a freight train containing 100 cars made partly of plywood. Use of the plywood cuts about two tons from the weight of an average conventional box car.

The new cars were the first of 1,000 being built in Great Northern shops in St. Cloud, Minn. They are painted a bright orange to distinguish them from standard box cars.

The understructures and frames of the new cars are built of steel and lumber, but plywood is used for the inside and outside sheathing.

Britain Bares Plans to End Jobless Eras

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 26.—The British government today issued a white paper outlining a plan for a controlled economy designed to eliminate unemployment in the transition period after the war and to assure workers of more stable conditions in the future.

A main principle laid down after two years of study is that a surplus from properous years should be used to carry over any bad period which follows.

The government set out the guiding principles for its policy of maintaining a high and stable level of unemployment, announced the making of plans for reducing unemployment, and forecast the introduction of a system of contributions to be paid by employers and employes under a new scheme of social insurance.

Hopes to Iron Out Slumps.

What the government plans to undertake is to iron out the variations that have occurred in the demand for goods in booms or slumps.

Full employment, the white paper states, depends upon expanding trade abroad and at home. Talks with other countries, the British hope, will lead to expansion of the production of goods everywhere.

During the period of transition rationing and price and wage controls would be retained.

Vital raw materials would still be controled.

In good times taxes would be higher and social security contributions greater. In bad times they would be lower.

Higher profits are looked on to maintain employment, rather than as a cure for unemployment. The plan aims to raise the standard of living, which, it is hoped, would bring a higher standard of consumption.

Spending Curb Planned.

The government seeks to maintain money in circulation at a "reasonable level." When there was a decrease in consumer demand, the government would put a curb on spending.

The initiative to manufacture goods and find markets would be left to private industry.

The British government has discarded the theory that it is possible to cure unemployment by deflation, Minister of Reconstruction Woolton said today. He emphasized that Britain will have to pay as it goes. There no longer are any credit balances in foreign countries. He said Britain does not want to export unemployment by obtaining unfair trade advantages.

Mobile Labor Proposed.

Labor Minister Bevin said it might be necessary to increase the mobility of post-war British workers to eliminate distressed areas when a trade has a slump.

The government is to institute a public works plan ready to operate on short notice by pumping money into distressed areas.

The government is prepared to pay subsidies where necessary to carry a trade thru periods of distress.

Treasury Denies Pay Rise for Stock Exchange Head

New York, May 26 (AP). — The treasury department today denied a boost in salary for Emil Schram, president, New York Stock exchange. Schram, president for three years at $48,000 a year, had been offered a new three year contract at $55,000 a year.

WORLD MONEY PARLEY CALLED BY ROOSEVELT

41 Nations Invited to Attend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—President Roosevelt today called an international monetary conference at which 41 nations and the French committee of national liberation will discuss international fiscal problems beginning the first week of July in the White mountains at Bretton Woods, N. H.

The invitation, which went out last night, emphasized that the settlement of monetary problems is of vital concern to all nations in the years of peace. The major topics at the conference, the President said in the invitation, will be economic coöperation and the creation of an international bank for reconstruction and development.

Envoys Receive Invitations.

The invitations were delivered during the day by diplomatic representatives to the countries addressed. Delivery was made to governments in exile in the cases of occupied nations.

The conference is expected to last two or three weeks. Mr. Roosevelt emphasized the invitation states that the governments shall pass upon whatever plan the delegates agree upon. This is to balk any charge that he is circumventing congress.

He also said the press will be allowed to cover the conference, which recalled the administration's unsuccessful attempt to keep the press out of the food conference at Hot Springs, Va.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau will head the American delegation to the conference. It will be known formally as the united nations monetary and financial conference.

Invitations Are Restricted.

Invitations were restricted to the allied nations and those associated with them in the war, thus barring such nations as Argentina and Bolivia, whose governments have not been recognized by the United States, and such neutrals as Sweden, Turkey, Eire, Switzerland, and Spain.

The White House announcement said:

"President Roosevelt has called an international conference for the purpose of discussing proposals to meet post-war international monetary problems.

"Invitations have been extended to all the united nations and the nations associated with them in the war, requesting them to send official representatives to the United States for the conference which will begin on July 1.

"The conference is expected to last several weeks. All agreements worked out by the conference subsequently will be submitted to the respective governments for approval."
